

Group seeks to put tax limitation on ballot

A state-wide, non-partisan organization brought its drive for tax limitation to Western Wayne County Friday with a press conference in Livonia.

Taxpayers United for Tax Limitation, with headquarters in Southfield, has launched a petition drive to place a tax amendment on the November ballot which would give citizens control not only of taxes, but government spending as well.

Tom Gorton, of Livonia, Western Wayne chairman, said Republicans, Democrats, independents, retirees, housewives, businesses, unions and farmers are becoming active in the petition drive taking part throughout Michigan.

In 1976, voters 42 percent strong almost made Michigan the first state in the union to pass a tax limitation amendment. According to Richard Headlee, state chairman, an estimated 60 percent of the Michigan electorate now support the need for a tax limitation amendment.

Headlee commented, "We believe tax limitation will be one of the major news stories of 1978. It will improve the economic life of all Michigan citizens."

Cited at the press briefing among reasons why tax limitation is needed were statistics which showed that during the last 10 years the number of state employees grew by 50.3 percent while the state population only increased by 6.7 percent.

Also brought out was that state spending had increased by 250 percent over the last 10 years, almost double the growth of personal income of Michigan residents.

The amendment being sought would tie future tax revenues directly to the total personal income of the people, Gorton said.

"As the economy expands and personal income grows, the legislature would have more money

Mayor-council honeymoon over?

City appointee ignores probe on residency

BY JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Some feel the honeymoon may be over between Mayor William Oakley and City Council.

And judging by some of the actions taken by council last week, there may be good reason.

First, City Council voted unanimously to enforce the residency ordinance which demands that everyone who works in Romulus must live in Romulus.

Council directed City Clerk Leonard Folmar to send letters to six or seven city hall employees, who live outside the city, to appear before City Council last night to explain if they plan to move into Romulus.

Although the names were not revealed, it is known that Dave Krause was one of those who received a letter. He said he plans to move into the city in accordance with the residency requirement.

Another one who was sent a letter is Eugene Yagley, assistant director for community development. He informed council that he would not appear before them as they requested.

In fact, he declined to meet with them and stated his reasons on paper.

"I was informed that while the City had a residency requirement for its employees, the policy of the city was not to enforce the rule. With this understanding, I accepted the job offer and have successfully assisted in the attainment of federal dollars for programs serving the needs of the community.

"Now, some twenty months later, the City Council has decided to take the issue of residency and change the existing policy.

"The changing of policy is clearly an administrative function and not a legislative function.

"The Romulus City Council is identified as the legislative department under the City Charter. "Until such time as the City Council is granted the necessary administrative powers I cannot respond to their actions regarding administrative concerns," his written statement concluded.

EUGENE R. YAGLEY

Some of the employees who received letters felt they were being discriminated against, claiming there were other Romulus employees living outside the city who did not receive letters to appear before council.

No part-time supervisor!

By JIM BRADLEY

Saturday's Huron Township annual meeting was a lot more subdued than last year's when police had to forcibly eject an upset taxpayer from the room.

But a few fireworks were included, highlighted by a citizen's proposal to hire an office manager for the township and relegate the supervisor's position to part-time.

George Angel, a former supervisor of Huron Township who was defeated in 1970, made the motion that elected officials in the positions of supervisor, clerk and treasurer not be permitted to hold other jobs.

Some observers felt this was directed at present Supervisor John Puskar, who is employed on the midnight shift at Ford Motor Company and a political opponent of Angel.

Angel's motion, supported by Chester Kaminski, read: "The position of township supervisor, clerk and treasurer requires people who are dedicated, self-disciplined and ready to cope with small and large problems of the township at a moment's notice.

His motion went on to state that supervisor's full-time salary would be at its present $15,500 and reduced to $5,000 for part-time. The motion would cut the clerk and treasurer from $14,000 to $4,500 for part-time.

"Briefly and to the point, full-time means that any person elected to any of the above positions must not be employed in any other capacity or self-employed in order to receive the above stated salary," the motion concluded.

The motion was defeated, 44-27, by a vote of the citizens.

Puskar reviewed his proposed budget at the meeting and citizens urged the supervisor and township board to restore $7,000 in the fire department's allocation in the proposed budget. The total proposed budget for the township is $994,079.

The police department's allocation was increased from $178,217 to $217,786, but Puskar said the larger amount would mainly absorb increases in inflation and negotiated contracts.

"I feel the prime concern should be in the effort and time a person devotes to the job and not whether he is employed elsewhere," Puskar said in responding to Angel.

"I work the midnight shift and am always available for my duties as supervisor.

"I put in more than 2,000 hours as supervisor last year, and I have even neglected my family at times to carry out what I promised to do," Puskar said.

Local tax protest group to meet

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Someone has said the only two sure things in life are death and taxes.

And while Romulus taxpayers may be willing to wait for the former, they're certainly not sitting quiet over the latter.

In fact, a group calling itself Citizens for Tax Reform is reportedly growing by leaps and bounds and expects more than 500 upset taxpayers at its meeting tomorrow night.

An update meeting has been scheduled for 7 p.m. tomorrow, April 6, at UAW Local 157 union hall, 29841 Van Born Rd., between Merriman and Middlebelt, in Romulus.

Tomorrow's gathering is an outgrowth of a previous meeting held three weeks ago at VFW hall when some 350 irate taxpayers jammed the building in an orderly protest of the higher taxes.

Some 80 percent of Romulus property owners suffered tax increases as a result of last year's reassessment held by Wayne County Bureau of Taxation.

Romulus City Council, acting in accordance with the city charter, voted a year ago to have all property in Romulus reassessed in 1977.

According to Section 5.6B, the charter reads: "All properties in the City of Romulus, personal and/or real, shall be reassessed at least once every eight (8) years after the date of this charter."

The charter was adopted in 1970. City Assessor, David Krause, who has come under much fire because of the reassessment, contacted six companies or assessing firms for the lowest price.

His memo to City Council dated Jan 17, 1977, stated: "Attached you will find copies of six requests for quotes and also a copy of three responses. I have been informed verbally by the three companies that did not respond that they could not compete with Wayne County Bureau of Taxation and therefore would not be submitting a quote."

Since Krause was informed by city council and the city attorney that bids were not necessary, he sought written price quotes.

Wayne County Bureau of Taxation was by far the lowest quote with a figure of $80,814.50, including interest-free payments spread across four years.

E. Martin Gulewicz was next lowest with $186,500, with interest-free payments across two years, and Gem Surveys, Inc. had a quote of $283,100.

Council voted to accept Wayne County to reassess the city's property.

At tomorrow night's meeting, another group, Taxpayers United For Tax Limitation, will give a 15-minute slide presentation on what they are doing state-wide to get a constitutional amendment to limit taxes.

According to their plan, future tax revenues would be tied directly to the total personal income of the people.

Citizens for Reasonable Taxes, another statewide organization, will attend the meeting and pass out literature, said Mel Morgan, who seems to be the informal guiding hand of the upset Romulus taxpayers.

Romulus BPW will make debut

The Romulus Business and Professional Women's Club, with a record setting 42 members, will receive its charter and install officers at a candlelit ceremony and dinner. The event will be held Saturday at the Airport Hilton Inn, beginning with a social hour at 6 p.m.

The new Romulus group has been cited by state BPW officials for their outstandingly high charter membership, the largest in the state according to records.

Sponsored by the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club, the Romulus group will become part of a state and national federation, supporting their platforms as well as local goals and objectives.

Bonnie Lozier will be installed as president of the new women's group. Marie DeBuyscher will be first vice-president and Rita McLendon will serve as recording secretary. All are from Romulus. Ann Gedert of Flat Rock will be the club's treasurer.

Those serving as committee chairwomen include Joyce

Morgan, finance; Marianne Pomeroy, legislation; Lorraine Block, membership; Marie DeBuyscher, program; Beverly McAnally, public relations; and Genevieve Dugan, Citizen's Advisory Committee representative. All are from Romulus. Violet Cann of Allen Park will head foundation.

More than 300 green and gold invitations have been mailed to women of local, state and national prominence inviting them to attend the charter presentation ceremonies.

Among those officiating at the service will be Ruth Davis, president of the Belleville club; Mildred Blackford, secretary of the Michigan Federation; The Rev. Susan K. DeFoe of the Faith United Methodist Church of Belleville; Margaret Kremer, president-elect of the Michigan Federation; Jean Allan, 15th District director; Olive Merlin, first vice-president of the Michigan Federation.

Others taking part in the presentation will be Phyllis Harrison, third vice-president of the National Federation; Mary Esther Daddazio, Michigan Federation president; Joyce Mallory, past president; Lena Baun, treasurer of the Michigan Federation; Ruth Davis, Hilla Wright and Lorraine Washburne. Others taking part will be Vira Petraske, Stephanie Nowak, Marlene Danol and Mary Alice Osgerby of the Michigan Federation.

The new women's club will meet on the fourth Thursday of each month to hear speakers and pursue goals as the moderate voice of the women's movement.

Phone books distributed

New west area telephone books are being distributed to area customers, beginning this week, according to representatives of Michigan Bell.

The spirit of Michigan Bell is personified on the covers of the new directories with photos of telephone people who enjoy serving people, explained Haze Wilson, a manager for the company. Identification of the operators, linepersons and others — photographed at their work locations around the state — can be found inside the directory.

Scattered throughout the Yellow Pages are some consumer tips which have been researched and approved by the Better Business Bureau, Michigan Bell and other groups.

One consumer tip explains that many Michigan attorneys provide information about their charges for initial consultations in their listings.

Such listings tell the public whether an attorney or law firm will initially discuss legal problems at no cost, for a limited fee or for a fee obtainable by telephone. This information now can be included by attorneys in Yellow Pages advertisements.

An index to these consumer tips appears as the last page of the directory.

Blooming miracle

When Vicki Kyak, a substitute teacher, "planted" a lilac bush in plaster of paris at Mt. Pleasant School recently, she never dreamed it would start blooming. But whether it was Vicki's "green thumb" or a miracle, the bush starting budding like it was in the best of soil. Shown here with Vicki (left) is teacher Algertha Leonard, the one Vicki was substitute teacher for on the day she planted the lilac at Mt. Pleasant Elementary School in Romulus. Holding the shrub are Jeff Baker, 9, and Kristi Morris, 9, of Ms. Leonard's class. — ANP photo.

Lilac branch blooms while in plaster 'cast'

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

"When Lilacs in the Court yard Bloomed" is a well-known poem by a famous poet.

But Vicki Kyak, a substitute teacher in Romulus Community Schools, can write about lilacs of her own.

And, being the poet she is, she can no doubt capture the miraculous "flavor" of her uncanny lilac bush.

"Miss Vicki", as she is known by her students, recently took a lilac bush from her yard in early February while the ground was still frozen.

Substituting for Mrs. Algertha Leonard at Mt. Pleasant elementary school for one week, Vicki decided to make a sweetheart tree as a special treat for Valentine's Day.

"I thought that a good-sized lilac twig clustered with sturdy branches would be ideal," she said. "So, I broke off the twig and brought it to school the next day."

"I placed it in a large coffee can filled with plaster of Paris which student Jeff Baker brought from home. In time the plaster hardened. This was Feb. 7 and in a few weeks' time, a miracle had occurred, at least that was my impression," Vicki said.

The 26-year-old Eastern Michigan University graduate related that the bush contained the "most eye-catching, big green buds growing freely all over the lilac twig — and with no leaves!"

According to Vicki, the blooming lilac bush was a miracle of God. And she freely writes poetry about God, love, children as well as music.

"I write mostly about nature, the countryside, spiritual gospel, and especially about children," she says.

As a hobby, she enjoys visiting nursery schools and nursing homes and sometimes entertains them musically by playing either the accordion or organ.

But children are her first love. "Where there's love and children, that's where you'll find me," she laughed.

And alongside her is the touch that helped the "miracle" lilac bush bloom gloriously in the plaster of Paris!

Service held for 'Jones' historian

Memorial funeral services will be held at 1 p.m. today from Second Baptist Church of Romulus for Stonewall J. Whitworth, who died Saturday after a period of failing health.

Mr. Whitworth was one of the earliest settlers of the Jones Subdivision in Romulus and became a historian for the area.

A man who often reminisced of the growth and progress of Romulus and its people, in 1975 he began recounting the history of the Jones Subdivision development in a story entitled "George Jones and his Real Estate Holdings in Romulus, Michigan."

The story tells the many hardships and struggles of the early settlers in the subdivision.

Mr. Whitworth recorded the oral version of this story as his contribution to the Romulus Bicentennial celebration. The recording is on permanent file in the city library.

Mr. Whitworth's survivors include his wife, Letha; two daughters, Gwen Hoffman and Roseanna Davis; two brothers, Swan Whitworth and Charles Whitworth, and many other relatives and friends.

A builder by trade, Mr. Whitworth was one of the more active senior citizens of the community. He dedicated his efforts to the growth, progress, good government and people of the city he loved deeply, said friends.

They quote a portion of the history he wrote of Romulus: as a testimonial of his love for the city. "Romulus is a fine place to live. I have lived in Romulus for over three decades, and have never gone to bed at night in fear of anything. We don't have fueds in our city, we have more love than hatred. We are able to reason together and that makes us our brother's keeper. We should all thank God for our city."

Tax limit sought

to work with, but state government could not enlarge its slice of the economic pie," he said.

Headlee emphasized that tax limitation would stabilize the growth of government permitting expansion only in step with the taxpayers ability or willingness — expressed through their vote — to pay for the expansion.

It was explained that the tax limitation amendment would not lower taxes, but would be designed to keep taxes from soaring out of sight by requiring that a balance be maintained between what the state and local governments seek to collect and residents' current ability to pay.

The tax limitation amendment would not stifle revenue for legitimate needs in time of emergencies, Headlee said. It would provide for adjusting tax levels to meet these emergencies. By returning to the taxpayer, through his vote, a voice in how much he must pay, more direct control is restored to them.

If the local school board, police department or fire department need more money to operate, local voters may approve any local tax they wish under the tax limitation amendment.

Local bodies of governments could not increase taxes or levy any new taxes above currently authorized limits without voter approval.

In regard to local property taxes, the amendment would require local tax rates to be rolled back whenever property values (state equalized valuation) are increased more than the general cost of living, Headless said.

Taxpayers United is supported by private contributions. Its current goal is to obtain 300,000 signatures to place the amendment on the November 1978 ballot and then to campaign for its adoption.

Tornado season arrives

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

And now that we can be fairly sure that we won't be getting another blizzard, are you prepared for Michigan's next disaster season? It's time to bone up on terms such as "tornado watch," and "tornado warning," and to realize where to go and what to do when you hear those phrases.

Because in Michigan, the months of April, May, June and July are prime tornado months.

Located on the fringe of what is known as "tornado alley," the State of Michigan has experienced 391 tornadoes since 1950, and 227 persons have been killed as a result.

It is important that residents know what to do when they hear tornado watches and warnings reported, and to have that plan of action thought out ahead of time.

The first basic piece of information you must know is the lingo used in reporting weather conditions on radio and television.

When a "tornado watch" is announced, it simply means that conditions are right for development of a tornado. The greatest frequency of tornadoes occurs during temperatures between 70 and 75 degrees, with high relative humidities. They can occur at any time of the day or night, but most often develop in the late afternoon and evening hours, between 3 and 7 p.m.

Tornadoes develop from dark thunderstorm-like clouds.

They generally come from the southwest at speeds between 20 and 45 miles per hour. Almost all come somewhere from the western horizon.

Many times they grow out of spring thunderstorms and accompany thunder, lightning, high winds and hail.

When you hear that there is a watch in effect, it is best to keep a radio or television on to hear later reports on developing weather conditions. Watches usually are two to six hours long, and give you time to prepare.

For instance, you should place small objects, such as garbage cans and bicycles, inside, make sure the family knows what to do in case of a tornado, and keep children under close supervision.

"A tornado warning" is issued by the weather service whenever a tornado actually has been sighted or strongly indicated by radar. The weather bureau also issues watches and warnings for severe thunderstorms.

While a watch may cover an area about two-thirds the size of lower Michigan, a warning usually is issued for three or four counties, and usually lasts no longer than 1½ hours.

The warning tells you to seek shelter immediately, to go to the basement or other place you have decided will be safest in your home. Move to the center of the lowest floor you have, preferably in a small room or closet. Stay low, possibly under heavy furniture, and keep away from windows.

Naturally, it will be much easier to find that shelter, if you have planned well in advance the place in your home that is safest.

And remember all those emergency items you were advised to buy in case of blackouts from a coal shortage? They will come in handy now. Items to have with you in your shelter would include transistor radio, flashlight, blankets, and first aid kit.

If there is time, it is recommended that you open some windows in your home to relieve pressure which will build up inside the building. That pressure could cause the walls to blow out.

If you are in a car when a tornado strikes, you should move away from the storm by driving at right angles to its path.

But if that fails, get out of the car and take shelter in a low-lying land area — a ditch or ravine. Cars can be tossed by the fierce wind, so get away from the vehicle.

Actually, a tornado is a column of violently rotating winds extending down from a thunderstorm-like cloud, and touching the surface of the earth.

A funnel cloud on the other hand, is a column of violently rotating winds extending from that cloud but not touching the earth's surface.

The average tornado is on the ground less than 10 minutes and travels about five miles, although exceptions far longer than that do exist.

Winds of the tornado rotate upwards of 200 miles per hour.

Tornadoes can cause some of the most extensive damage to trailer parks, so if you live in a lightweight mobilehome it may be a good idea to take shelter in a sturdier building, if you can.

Schools and places of business should have advance plans worked out to move people to interior hallways and small rooms on the lowest floor, away from windows.

Authorities warn again and again that advance planning — deciding where to take shelter, having emergency items available, having family members scatter — is most important.

Early warning systems: Some have it, some don't

Wayne, Belleville and Sumpter Township have it. Canton Township will be getting it soon, and Van Buren Township is thinking of getting it. On the other hand, Romulus, Inkster, Westland and Huron Township don't have any of it at all, although Inkster used to have it and Romulus talked about getting it once.

"It" is an early warning system, more specifically a siren, to alert residents of the community when there are tornado warnings indicating that a tornado may be on the way.

Many towns and cities use sirens to warn residents of impending disaster, although in a number of cases there is only one siren, and that alerts only a portion of the populace, if that.

Not so in Wayne, where the city is revamping its system and will be replacing the one siren it now has plus adding two others to give the city full coverage.

According to Fire Chief Kenneth Warfield, the city is now taking bids for the three sirens. The one it currently has is at the city department of public works garage. The others will be placed strategically to give full coverage to the city.

The department tests its siren on the first Monday of every month, at 12 noon, by sounding the siren for one minute, then pausing and sounding it for another steady minute.

However, if there is a tornado warning, that signal will be a steady siren for three to five minutes, Warfield said.

Belleville has two sirens, one at the water tower, the other at City Hall, that are activated to alert residents of a tornado warning. It goes on for a minute, off for a minute, then on for a minute, according to Tony Talaga, head of the civil defense, and also head of the township department of public works and fire department.

Since Belleville is a small town, they expect that the signal can be heard by most residents, although not by all Van Buren Township residents.

Sumpter Township has one siren, at Willis and Sumpter roads, that emits three short blasts to give a tornado warning (the fire department summons is two long blasts), said Acting Police Chief Lt. Jerry Cox.

Headmits, however, that the siren probably can only be heard for a three- to four-mile radius, hardly adequate to cover the 37-square mile township.

However, the rural community does not have many centers of population and the police patrol cars could tour the residential areas in a short time and broadcast warnings, he said.

This method is considered an alternative warning device by many departments.

Canton Fire Chief Mel Paulson said that the township has three sirens, although they haven't been mounted yet, that will be used for tornado warnings.

They will be installed at the township offices, Geddes and Sheldon roads, and at the two fire stations, Cherry Hill and Canton Center roads and Haggerty and Warren roads.

The township is hoping that the government will follow through on an earlier proposal that it fund 50 percent of the cost for the devices.

According to Van Buren Township Clerk Doreen Craven, the township has been considering working out a signal using the same siren used to summon volunteers of the fire department. However, it would be a different frequency, so that residents could differentiate.

Inkster had a signal on its old fire station at one time, but that is gone, said Police Lt. Anderson Young, who is civil defense director.

He too, said in an emergency, the police department might consider sending patrol cars in the neighborhoods to announce on their public address systems that severe weather was imminent. He added, however, that if that were done, authorities would have to weigh various factors, such as whether the benefits of the warning would outweigh the possible hazards of people panicking, especially if no tornado did strike.

Handicap riders need assistants

The Wayne County 4-H Handicapped Riding Program will begin its spring classes on April 7 and 8 for interested people in the Belleville area as well as those in Romulus and Huron Township.

As in the past, the program will run on Fridays and Saturdays at the Circle "R" Ranch, 18485 Inkster Rd., Romulus.

Friday classes are conducted from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday classes begin promptly at 8:30 a.m. and end at 12:30 p.m., according to Cathy Bies, instructor-coordinator for the course.

Four one-hour horseback riding classes will be conducted each day. Volunteers are urgently needed and training sessions for volunteers will be held tomorrow, March 30, at 7:30 p.m. at the Wayne County 4-H office in Wayne, Mich.

Interested persons should call 697-0677 for more information. Circle "R" Ranch is located on Inkster Road, between Sibley and Pennsylvania roads in Romulus.

NA Co meeting produces promise of jobs

Wayne County Commissioners attending the annual legislative conference of NACo (National Association of Counties) in Washington, D.C., came away with the promise of more work projects, an expansion of public service jobs under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) and renewal of the $20 million Criminal Justice planning program.

Joining the 1,100 other commissioners from across the country were Wayne County delegates Edward K. Michalski of Detroit, Mary E. Dumas of Livonia, Maxine Young of Detroit, and Martha Scott of Highland Park, who took part in the four-day conference.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall told the delegates that the expansion of public service jobs had a great deal to do with the recent drop in the nation's unemployment rate.

"A record-breaking 450,000 new public service jobs were created in little more than nine months," he said. "In this time, black employment increased by 5.9 percent."

"The CETA program surpassed its target of 725,000 jobs early this month — and much of the credit must go to the states, counties and local governments which are the CETA prime sponsors."

Marshall said that every time the unemployment rate declines by one percentage point, it means one million more people are at work.

During a luncheon session conducted later, Secretary of Commerce Juanita M. Kreps, told the 1,100 listeners that under the previous administration only 191 counties had federally-funded work projects which indicated an uneven distribution of the economic prosperity.

"Within the past 90 days," she said, "3,600 new work projects worth $4 billion are being funded by the federal government and 901 counties will participate."

Senate Finance Committee Chairman Russell B. Long (D-La.) told the Wayne County contingent that it would "be a mistake to take state and local governments out of welfare, especially in the area of jobs."

Laffs winner No. 8

The winner couldn't be present, so Associated Newspapers did the next best thing. It asked the second-place winner in its weekly Lottery Laffs game to fill in. So on hand last week to accept his 80 Michigan State Lottery Tickets was Eric Corbett of Dearborn Heights. Corbett dropped his cartoon off at Harold Dietrich Buick in Wayne. Presenting him with his tickets was ANP staff artist Pat Croo. The first-place entry for the cartoon of a man and a woman in a used car lot was "Steve is my name; used car sales is my game. Looking for a steal, check my deal." It was submitted by Steve Vigh of Plymouth. He dropped his winning entry off at Hines Park Lincoln Mercury. — ANP photo.

Channel 56 views future programs

With the break in programming for the 10th Annual Great TV Auction April 7-15, Channel 56 would like to take this opportunity to look ahead to two of public television's many projects now in production to be aired next season.

The order of the plays has not been determined. The plays for this and all succeeding seasons were selected as a balanced mixture with tragedy, comedy, history plays and romances all represented. In all, 36 plays will be broadcast over six years.

Starting in November 1978 will be a unique international affairs series called "Global Papers." Targeted to urgent world issues, each "Global Paper" will consist of up to five hours of concentrated programming, filmed and taped on location throughout the world. "Global Papers" will offer international viewpoints to Americans and bring fresh perspectives and a sense of immediacy to the world crises around the corner. The first edition will be 3 1/2 hours of programming on the world's impending food crisis.

The international reports will be made by the American Universities Field Staff (AUFS) which has a permanent overseas radio — television correspondent staff of 18. The correspondent staff of any commercial network does not number more than 16.

"Global Papers" broadcasts are planned to air at six-month intervals through 1980. The focus of future papers will include problems of world cities, aging, civil liberties and the resolution of world conflicts.

Scheduled for later in the season, February 1979, will be a second project, the beginning of a six-year series presenting the complete Stars already set for the first year include Michael York, Sir John Gielgud, Derek Jacobi ("I, Claudius"), Celia Johnson and Laurence Naismith. The title roles in "Romeo and Juliet" will be played by two newcomers, Patrick Ryecart and 14-year-old Rebecca Saire.

PCHA directors OK increase in charges

Room rates at the five Peoples Community Hospital Authority's (PCHA) hospitals will be among charges to be increased. The increases were approved at the March meeting of the authority's Board of Directors.

According to board treasurer Roger J. Remer, representative of the city of Flat Rock: "We are pleased that despite the increase in charges to patients, PCHA hospitals charge schedules are still among the lowest in southeastern Michigan."

Remer went on to say that the "increases were dictated by several factors over which we have little or no control."

"The overall inflation in all elements of cost involved in hospital operation continues unabated," he added. "We currently are in negotiations with the union which represents our hourly-rated employees, and we are not absolutely certain what impact the final agreement will have on our costs."

"That it will increase our costs is a forgone conclusion since our employees must also face a continuing inflation."

"The costs of drugs, food, supplies, utilities and a general increase for our salaried workers also must be considered in establishing a fiscal year operating budget."

Remer said the fiscal year 1979 PCHA gross budget is $109.6-million — an increase of approximately $15 million from last fiscal year.

There are several factors which contribute to the increased gross budget.

In June 1977, Heritage Hospital was opened to accept patients. With the addition of 675 employees to the PCHA payroll, the budget increased.

Remer also explained that a new system of reimbursement between participating hospitals and Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Michigan will be implemented July 1 this year. This new system was established in an attempt to control hospital costs.

In the former system, hospitals were reimbursed on an after-the-fact or retrospective basis. The new system is known as prospective reimbursement.

Simply stated, prospective reimbursement is a system wherein participating hospitals agree to maintain their costs within a prescribed limit known as a target percentage of increase. If the hospital is able to operate under the agreed-upon target, the hospital will then receive an incentive bonus equal to 50 percent of the difference between the actual costs and the target. If, conversely, a hospital exceeds the targeted costs, the hospital will not be reimbursed by Blue Cross for the excess spending.

The new room rates at all five PCHA hospitals will be $122 per day for a semi-private room (up from $106); $128 for a private room (up from $111); and $118 for a ward (up from $103).

The board also certified the assessment rolls for fiscal year 1979. Under the provisions of Public Act 47 of 1945 which governs all nine hospital authorities in Michigan, each member community is assessed 0.4 mill on all real and personal property as state equalized. The assessment will return $1,885,624.47 this year — an increase of approximately $75,000 from last year.

PCHA operates five general, short-term, acute-care hospitals in Wayne and Washtenaw counties — Beyer Memorial in Ypsilanti, Annapolis in Wayne, Heritage in Taylor, Outer Drive in Lincoln Park, and Seaway in Trenton.

Hall of Fame honors black filmmakers

The fifth annual Oscar Micheaux Awards Ceremony of the "Black Filmmakers Hall of Fame" will be shown on Channel 56 April 22 at 8:30 p.m.

The 1978 edition of this annual salute to Black achievement in the cinema is hosted by Emmy Award-winning actor Lou Gossett Jr., singer Nancy Wilson, television personality Don Cornelius and actress Vonetta McGhee.

Also appearing during the 90-minute special are Tony Award-winner Linda Hopkins, director Michael Schultz, actors Ted Lange and Brock Peters, the Nicholas Brothers and Shirley Temple Black.

The six people to be inducted into the Hall of Fame are the late singer-actress Nina Mae McKinney, Count Basie, actress-pianist Hazel Scott, composer Bennet L. Carter, Ella Fitzgerald and the late actor-dancer Bill (Bojangles) Robinson.

"The Black presence has been in the mainstream of American film, although for the most part in stereotype," said Ms. Wilson in introducing the program. "Ours has been an uphill struggle to preserve artistic, cultural and personal integrity... it was music that could speak of things that could not have otherwise been uttered."

Editorial opinions

Tax break rejection by Romulus Council will hit citizens hard

Following last November's election in Romulus, we had hoped that the new faces on the city council would provide the community with a new and fresh approach to local problems, but we were apparently wrong.

The city council, at a meeting of March 14, voted against providing a tax break for The Campbell Development Company. The negative vote came as the direct result of public pressure relative to recent residential property tax re-assessments that had hit Romulus residents hard.

But we have a problem with that vote by council, and we think that any person in Romulus who really wanted his taxes to remain stable, should also ask some serious questions about that council action.

Campbell had requested a 50-percent tax break for the next 12 years in order to close a deal for the development of a new industrial customer who was willing to locate in Romulus. Campbell's client would have provided the city treasury with an additional $63,000 per year for the first 12 years, after which, his tax load would have just about doubled.

We feel that the loss of the Campbell development is symptomatic of the major stumbling block that exists in Romulus for potential businessmen.

While the Romulus city fathers were wise enough to grant a similar tax relief measure for Detroit Diesel Allison, their action of denying Campbell's request is inconsistent, and worse, disconcerting to potential Romulus businessmen.

With Romulus surrounded by communities that can and do offer tax advantages for developing business, it is imperative that the Romulus city council get its act together.

We understand the pressure that was applied to council by the many irate citizens in the audience on the evening in question, but we do not understand council's vote to move the community backwards.

They should make a better effort to inform the citizens of the community of the ramifications of such action.

More public input on nation's energy crisis could help

Citizens have their own special interest in energy.

We are all consumers with an interest in keeping our energy bills down.

But public officials in both the Executive Branch and Congress underestimate the citizens' ability to take a broader view and support policies which they recognize are in the public interest — even if they require sacrifices.

And they underestimate the citizen's ability to participate in long-term choices for our energy future.

So they don't attempt to inform the public on our energy situation and options, or to organize citizen support for strong energy measures in any consistent way.

But informed, organized citizen involvement can help solve both our institutional crisis and our resources crisis.

So far, three Presidents of both parties, and three Congresses haven't been able to come up with a coherent energy policy which will begin the process of transforming our singleminded, wasteful energy system into the more flexible, efficient one we will increasingly need.

The reasons for it are clear: special interests, inside government as well as outside it, have big stakes in our present system.

Government officials have a vested interest in making their job easier by keeping decision-making in their own hands. The cumbersome alternative of trying to involve citizens in the process often seems too difficult, too time-consuming or politically dangerous to them.

President Carter's energy package, for example, was put together in secret by his energy advisor without early involvement of the other Executive Departments. Schlesinger made the bad mistake of not consulting well informed members of Congress, and he kept the public in the dark.

Citizens had no way of knowing officially what the range of policy options was that the president was considering.

This failure to consider what an informed and motivated public could contribute to a major decision of government left a vacuum into which interest groups with economic axes to grind swiftly moved.

When there is no organized public constituency working for a long-range solution to a problem, the vested interests have no competition. There's nothing to restrain their "me first" point of view, and they can wield a veto power over decisions.

Thus steps should be taken to open up the process.

— One of our biggest energy problems is that citizens don't know whom to believe. Measures to get rid of conflicts of interest, to require logging of contacts between energy officials and outside parties can help assure citizens that energy officials are acting in the public interest — not their own.

— To play an effective role in decisions on our energy future citizens views must be actively sought by energy agencies, and citizens interests must be adequately represented before energy regulatory boards. Access to information and public education programs on energy is the key.

— We cannot put all our eggs in one new energy basket. Citizens must be assured that they will have a choice of alternative sources.

Guns and autos eyed by lawmakers

By EDWARD E. MAHALAK
State Representative
38th District

The Legislature has been giving attention recently to antique guns and antique cars. Even though it can be just as deadly as any other firearm, a person does not need a concealed weapons permit to carry a loaded antique gun.

A bill passed by the House and sent to the Senate would allow only an unloaded antique firearm to be carried without a concealed weapons permit. An unloaded antique firearm does not pose the same threat since it is time-consuming and difficult to load.

The bill would correct a loophole in the existing law which allows a person to carry around a concealed, loaded gun simply because it is classed as an antique.

The term "antique firearm" refers to the type of firing system of a gun, rather than its actual date of manufacture. Thus, a gun made this year qualifies as an antique firearm if it is an unaltered replica of a pre-1888 weapon which did not use rimfire or conventional center fire ignition with fixed ammunition.

In addition, firearms manufactured before 1899 which do used fixed ammunition are considered antiques if the ammunition used is no longer manufactured in the United States and is not readily available commercially.

The bill is supported by the Department of Natural Resources, the Michigan Sheriffs' Association and the State Police. The antique car bill was recently signed into law, correcting a problem for vintage vehicle enthusiasts.

The State's Vehicle Code sets a number of requirements for horns, lights and mirrors, as well as other safety equipment. In order to meet those requirements, owners of historical vehicles had to make modifications which ruin the original design of the vehicle.

The new law amends the Vehicle Code to exempt from certain equipment standards vehicles licensed as historical vehicles if the old car, as originally equipped, failed to meet those standards. Specifically, the exemptions would cover headlights, tail lights, brake lights, horns, mirrors and windshields.

In order to be licensed as a historic vehicle, a car must be at least 25 years old. Thus, the new law does not pose a threat to traffic safety since only a few vehicles would be eligible for the exemption. Further, historical vehicles are most commonly used on the highways in connection with old car club activities, exhibition tours and parades.

The Department of State has issued approximately 15,500 historical vehicle license plates since 1951. The plates are issued on a permanent basis and the department estimates that only about 10,000 vehicles with the historic vehicle plates exist at the present time. Of that number, only a small percentage are probably old enough to have been manufactured in a way which fails to meet the equipment standards required by the Vehicle Code.

Also of historic interest was House approval of a bill to expand the successful Centennial Farm program to include non-farm homesteads that have been in the same family for at least 100 years.

There are approximately 3,000 registered Centennial Farms in Michigan. The same type of recognition for non-farm homesteads would encourage their preservation and the further development of an appreciation of local history.

Under the bill, which is now in the Senate, a person owning or in possession of a home or tract of land which has been in the family for 100 years or more could apply to the Michigan Historical Commission to list the property in a register maintained by the commission. After the application is authenticated, the property would be registered and the owner would receive a plaque identifying the property as a historic homestead.

Michigan's small towns and big cities contain a wealth of homesteads that would be eligible for this honor, which would further the sense of local history and community pride. There has been House and Senate approval of a bill which could aid in the restoration of older, rundown business districts in cities.

The bill is patterned after the successful Plant Rehabilitation Act of 1974, which provides for local tax breaks for renovations or replacements of industrial property.

The latest bill would offer the same incentive for commercial property. It would permit local units of government to establish a commercial rehabilitation district and offer tax breaks for the renovation, restoration or replacement of business property within that district.

The construction, restoration or replacement would have to be started within 12 months before the filing of the application for tax exemptions and the improvements would have to be likely to create, retain or prevent a loss of jobs in the community.

The legislation would apply a need stimulus and incentive for the rehabilitation of obsolete commercial property, which is crucial to the revitalization of older downtown areas which need restoration in order to serve the needs of residents in those areas, especially the elderly and those without personal means of transportation.

Property tax reform needed now!

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

There has, for the past several weeks, been a considerable amount of discussion relating to property taxes, and that subject's impact on the residential property owner of Michigan.

In fact, the subject is getting so hot that there are now at least two state-wide groups attempting to get tax reform on this November's ballot.

The impending "Taxpayer's Revolt", or so it has come to be labeled, is the apparent result of the latest round of property tax assessments that have occurred in several communities in Western Wayne County.

Joining the growing number of irate taxpayers, are many statewide organizations, that up to this time have been silent on the issue of excessive property taxes, and its impact on the middle-class Michigan family.

Probably representative of the many horror stories that abound concerning the inequities of the property tax, and its application, is one concerning the Smith family of Westland (not the real name).

The Smith's, a family of five, made the decision to have a home built in the city. They had spent a considerable amount of time, prior to making the decision to build, in looking for a suitable home for their growing family. They had concluded that they simply could not afford a large house that would accommodate their big family, at the prices that were currently listed.

Prior to beginning construction, Mr. Smith made a trip to city hall and the assessor's office, blue prints in hand, to get an estimate of the property tax assessment on the home when completed.

The assessor's office explained that it would be difficult to accurately assess from just the blueprints, but Mr. Smith insisted that he had to have some "ball park figure" to base his estimated budget on.

With the assertion that the figure was not accurate, Mr. Smith received an estimate of $1,150 per year, based on the prints.

Some months later, with the new Smith homestead about 50 percent completed, the city assessor stopped in to visit the new home.

The assessor explained that he would have to put the new home on the tax rolls as 50 percent completed, and when asked by Mr. Smith what the total tax bill would be following completion of the project, the assessor confirmed his earlier estimate of $1,150 per year.

Well everything went beautifully for the Smiths.

They finished up the home, with a total investment of about $36,000. They felt that while they had not built the home to resell, it was probably worth much more than their initial investment. They had gotten the home they had wanted, at a price they could afford, and most of their budgeting plans had worked out pretty close to anticipated.

Because the home had been put on the tax rolls as only 50-percent completed initially, the Smith's first tax bill came to about $600. The second year, the tax bill arrived and had been adjusted for completion of the home, and amounted to $1,208. Given the fact that Mr. Smith's initial estimate had come more than a year before, he did not question the increase from $1,150 to $1,208.

Three weeks ago, the Smith family received a real shock!

In their mailbox, was a notice from the assessor's office stating that their property tax assessment had been increased, by more than $900.

Since the construction of the home had been a difficult task, and the Smith's budget had been stretched to the breaking point, the decision to build came only after carefully analyzing the costs. Necessary to the final decision to build was the anticipated cost of property taxes.

Well, apparently the assessor's office had made a large error in their estimate of property taxes, and the Smith family would have to come up with another $75 per month for the tax man. That, on top of the current $100 per month that they had already budgeted.

Exhausting the appeal route to no avail, the Smith's are now in the midst of making another decision. Will they have to move, or can Mrs. Smith possibly switch from her current part-time job to a full-time position.

With Michigan's current tax rate, approaching three-percent of the real value of the property, almost the same rate that the hard-pressed residents of California have been forced to endure, it is little wonder that the Smiths of Michigan are up in arms.

This year's efforts to force property tax reform questions on the state fall ballot could very well be the turning point for the residents of this state.

It is time, I believe, for government to be forced to economize. I am convinced that state spending, and school system spending is now out of control, and only the citizens of Michigan will be able to change the current course.

South-end residents question water

To the Editor:

Speaking to a member of the news media recently, Sumpter Township supervisor, Robert Demski, in reference to the bias suit against the township in its Phase III Watermain Plan, said, "If we win this suit and receive the $4 million, it will give the township about 30 miles of water lines we need badly. But if we lose, no one will get anything. It will be a 100-percent loss."

Either Mr. Demski considers the south-end of Sumpter Township part of another municipality or he doesn't understand what the suit is all about.

Let me remind Mr. Demski that the Southend Concerned Citizens are only asking in their suit that the proposed water lines in Phase III be re-routed to serve more people in the south-end who are drinking dangerously contaminated well water; nothing more.

A favorable ruling from the Southend Concerned Citizens' viewpoint means that young children and old men and women, some of whom are infirm, will be able to drink clean water for the first time without hauling it from the public tap. These people are also Sumpter citizens, so Sumpter will not have lost anything.

On the other hand, if an unfavorable ruling is rendered and Mr. Demski gets his way, the south-end will live with the decision. The point is; whatever the result of the litigation, Sumpter will get its $4 million of water lines. That is; unless Mr. Demski considers the south-end a satellite of his municipality.

Career Day invitation

Dear Parents:

On Tuesday, April 11, 1978, a Career Day program will be conducted at Belleville

High School. Our 10th, 11th, and 12th grade students will attend this program until 12:30 p.m., at which time they will be bussed home. We will have over 130 representatives of various careers and colleges as our guests.

With the tight job market and the increased need for specialized training, the early selection of a career becomes more important than ever before. I hope that you will impress upon your son or daughter the wonderful opportunity they are being given to learn about the different vocations, professions, and educational opportunities. We hope that our students will take full advantage of this opportunity.

May I take this time to extend an invitation to the entire community to attend this event. It will begin at 8:55 and end at 12:05. No pre-registration is necessary. We welcome your presence.

Reflections

'Stork brung babies!'

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

There is always a danger in raising children that what you think you are doing for them is not what you are doing at all. That is why there are so many psychologists and psychiatrists making a mint realigning all of those ids and ego's which Phillip Wylie so long ago charged moms with screwing up.

Anyone who has gotten their kids raised knows that a mother takes a chance when she tells a kid anything.

"Don't pull that cat's tail," she will yell, trying to make herself heard above the screeching of the cat.

"I'm not," the little kid will yell back. "I'm just holding it. He's pulling it."

This is what I was trying to tell my daughter-in-law when she braced her six day old baby up on a pillow and told him where he came from. As he grew older she bought books and taught him all the proper names to call different parts of his anatomy, and the kid, by the time he was four years old, was a real smart kid.

He used to tell other kids what he knew and the other kids got their mouths washed out with soap.

Came the day that Jason went to nursery school.

He had planned for that day. His hair had been styled, his shoes polished and his new pants were laying across his toy chest.

At 3 a.m. he leaped out of bed and into the middle of his parents' bed.

"Hey," he shouted. "You gotta get up. I have to go to school." His father tried to smother him, not realizing he was only paying for his own raising, and his mother rescued him before the last breath. That woke up the baby and even Puff (the cat) was disturbed and crawled up on the bed where he began licking everyone.

But Jason was unperturbed by all the fuss. He was sitting on the counter eating the peanut butter sandwich he had laid there thenight before after taking only two bites from it.

No one knew for sure how they lived through the next few hours, but at last the four year old was trotting across the field to his school, stopping only twice to slide down an unmelted snow hill, and to see if theicewould hold on a ten-inch water hole.

At 11 a.m. his mother was anxiously waiting for him by the back gate.

He walked dejectedly through the field, pushed past her through the gate and went into the family room where he picked up Puff and hugged him.

"What's the matter, Jason?" asked his mother. "How was school?"

Jason buried his head in the cat's soft fur, and then looked up at his mother. He pushed out his lips in a pout and said,

"I'm not goin' to that school no more!" he said.

"For heavens sake, why not?" asked his mother.

"Cause."

"Cause why?"

"Cause you said I'm smart, but I'm not. I'm dumb!" And the little boy buried his head in his arms.

"Aw honey. Who ever said you were dumb?"

"Me," he sniffed.

"Why?"

"Cause I was the only one who didn't know storks brung babies!"

The science of organisms

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

If you are in the Microbiology Laboratory in the Annapolis Hospital and you listen carefully to the conversations among the scientists working there, you are liable to hear one voice which stands out from the others.

The reason that voice stands out is that George Fearnough, Phd, and his precise, well-articulated and modulated tones come from England.

"I was born in the town of Oldham which is about eight miles Northeast of Manchester and 100 miles South of the Scottish border in the Royal County of Lancaster," he said.

Fearnough graduated from Manchester University with a major concentration in Microbiology. To achieve his level of competency, he worked eight hours a day in the University Laboratory and then attended didactics from 6:00 to 11:00 p.m. He had to maintain this back-breaking schedule for three years to earn the first of his degrees.

Following graduation for the University, Fearnough did a 4-year residency in laboratory research and then attended additional didactic sessions. All told, his University and post-graduate training took over ten years to complete.

"During World War II", he said, "I was not quite old enough to join the service. Manchester was blitzed about as bad as London and one of my civilian responsibilities was that of fire watcher at the Laboratory."

"We had some 5000 research animals — guinea pigs — and we only lost one colony during the blitz." (We should add here that a colony of research animals is equal to eight guinea pigs, and is not like the colony of 1776!)

Fearnough has an interesting background. His initial inclination in life was to become a medical missionary. Toward that end he took theological training (Methodist Church in England) along with his purely scientific class work.

"The late Albert Schweitzer was my boyhood idol, and I hoped to pattern my life after him. While perhaps I didn't share all of Scheitzer's theological positions, I was inspired by the principles he set down. Schweitzer gave me a glimpse of what man is capable of doing."

I asked if he ever experienced any philosophical anguish in his dual role as scientist and theist.

He quickly replied, "Certainly not. There is no basic conflict between the acceptance of a Diety and the study of science. Obviously scientists would not agree that the world was created in six 24-hour periods (according to the book of Genesis the sun wasn't created until the fourth day, thus making the first three 24-hour segments unmeasurable as such). There are other areas in which those of a scientific bent may well differ from the literal translation of the Bible, but the essential thing to remember is that science and religion are not mutually incompatible."

In 1957, Fearnough emigrated to Canada where he joined the Provincial Department of Health in Toronto. While working for the department, he reported the first publicized paper on an organism called Clostridium Perfringens — an organism responsible for food poisoning.

Fearnough left Canada for Ann Arbor in 1961 when he was appointed to the faculty of the College of Medicine at The University of Michigan as an instructor in Microbiology. There he taught medical students, dental students, and in the Nursing school. Additionally, he was named Curator of the culture collection at the medical school.

He is the Chief of the Microbiology service for the five PCHA hospitals. He said that Microbiology at PCHA is divided into two areas: (1) the service is a resource for the staff physicians in the identification of organisms, and (2) the service protects the patients from developing illnesses other than the one(s) which brought them to the hospital initially. According to Fearnough, Microbiology is the study of microscopic bacteria, fungi, parasites, and viruses which can cause illness to human beings. From that definition, he told a fascinating story.

There is an organism — Staphylococcus Aureus — for which the host is man. Possibly 70 percent of all human carry this organism in the nose. It's a prime cause of boils, carbuncles, meningitis, and some other not-too-pleasant maladies.

While only man is known to carry this organism, it has been discovered 200 feet under the Polar ice cap and nine miles out in the atmosphere.

Came the obvious question: "What does this mean? Did other forms of life once occupy these areas? Is it an encounter of another kind?"

Fearnough smiled and said, "Actually, we don't know what it means. As a scientist I can't arrive at a definitive answer; the data are not all in yet."

"But it's fun to speculate, don't you think?"

Bald Eagle Speaks

What is society doing?

By BOB AMEEN

What have the 'advances' in civilization in our nation cost its citizens insofar as their health, emotional well-being and safety are concerned.

Plenty. Judging from stories which appear with more and more frequency in our media, the lives of Americans over the last few decades have changed drastically.

Healthwise, our citizens live longer than ever before, but more and more millions fall victim yearly to the ravages of cancer, heart disease and high blood pressure. More manhours are lost and more deaths result from the emotional turmoil brought on by today's pressures of everyday living.

Years ago, it was not uncommon for residents of communities, more specifically small towns and cities, to leave their doors unlocked when they retired for the night. Now, it is almost unheard of!

So rarely is it done that a person known to follow that practice would porbably be considered a looney by his neighbors and friends.

The fear generated by ever-increasing crime in all areas has permeated our nation's citizenry. With the exception of close friends and relatives, few persons are trusted today. The sound of a footstep behind a person going to his car in the parking lot or down the street to the drug store is enough to cause the heart to pound rapidly and fear and panic to rise uncontrollably.

Yes, the ever-present shadow of muggings, rapes, shootings and knifings has transformed our once happy-go-lucky average American into a cringing figure afraid to venture into the outdoors after dark.

In large metropolitan cities, passengers in the streetcars, subways, buses or the elevated trains choose where they sit with care, glance anxiously at the person sitting next to them and cast fearful looks over their shoulders when they alight from these vehicles.

Even in the relative safety of their automobiles, drivers cannot relax in our large cities, especially at night. The thought of having a breakdown or flat tire on the expressway brings to mind the murders committed on these thoroughfares for the sake of a few dollars reaped in a holdup.

Before long, trips to the downtown areas are made only in the daylight hours or in large groups at night. The curtailment of long-practiced habits of going to the movies, theater, opera, sports stadium and fancy restaurants takes much of the fun and thrill of living in a metropolitan area out of the lives of city dwellers and suburbanites alike.

Parents fear for their children on the way to school. The fear that a sexual deviate may pick them up, molest and even kill them continually nags at their thoughts. Once to school, their worries still are not over as stories of knifings and rapes on school premises haunt their minds.

Worse off than all segments of our society are the senior citizens of our land, already beset with the trials and tribulations of being forced to exist on fixed incomes while inflation runs wild.

Now in their twilight years, with their physical powers at low ebb, and in most instances, virtually unable to defend themselves, this group is at the mercy of anyone who wishes to do them harm.

What has society done or is doing to help out these older members of our country's population? Very little.

Yes, it would seem that our nation has progressed in its civilization to the point of diminishing returns. Rather than advance in the best interests of mankind, it appears to be going backwards.

Perhaps, our nation's leaders should give more priority to the emotional well-being, health and safety of the individual than to the technological breakthroughs which enable the masses to travel faster, work less and loaf more.

It would seem that these latter end results-time-saving appliances, television and a multitude of leisure activities - all end up tearing apart the American family to the detriment of its members individually, and to the nation as a whole.

Is there life after birth?

As I sat looking out into the darkness from the sixth-story window of Sinai Hospital, I suddenly realized that the question of life after death was not really a problem at all. What was far more important (and could definitely be a problem) was the question, "is there life after birth?"

My mother was dying of cancer. She had called the immediate family to her bedside late that evening and having all arrived, she told us with a calm assurance and with a note of joy in her voice, "Jesus is coming to take me home. I want you all to remember to love one another."

She had been a faithful Christian for years, and during the last three years just prior to this fateful evening she had found great comfort in the Scriptures and from the personal relationship she had maintained with the Lord Jesus Christ. The natural instinct to live kept her hope alive that one day she might completely recover and be healed by a sovereign act of God. But several days before, she finally surrendered even her natural instincts to Him and prayed "My Lord, not my will but thine be done."

In so doing she experienced a

'And you hath he made alive, who were dead in trespasses and sins...!

magnificent peace of God that surpassed all human understanding. She had shown me how to live like a Christian, and now she was showing me how to die like one.

My wife and I had received Jesus Christ as our personal Savior several years before and we were now able to enter into her peace and her joy and rejoice with her for the glory that soon awaited her. Other members of the family were in tears and felt helpless, not understanding the joy that mom radiated. The following day she entered into His presence, the final word upon her lips being the name of Jesus.

For me, a number of experiences such as this amongst Christians, and of course, the Holy Bible itself, provides more than sufficient evidence that there is a life after death. Why then do so many continue to ask whether there is or not?

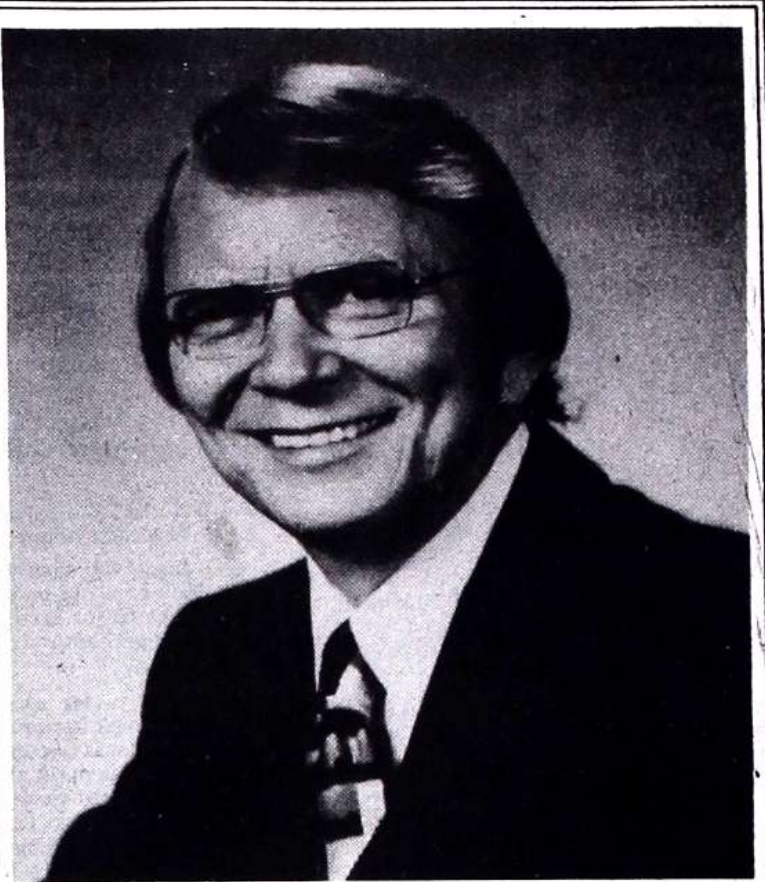

It can only be that for one reason or another, they will not believe the simple truth of God's Word, which plainly declares that there is an existence for all men after this life is over. That existence will be spent either in His presence "where there is fullness of joy and pleasures forever more", or separated from Him, alone and in darkness with only one's memory for a companion.

Unless you're performing an amazing juggling act, you'll find that the Scriptures nowhere speak of death as an annihilation or reincarnation. Death is (1) a separation from God (for the sting of death is sin and sin separates) and (2) the loss of all that is meaningful and satisfying to life. This is why Jesus said in St. John 9:51 that "...If a man keep my saying, he shall never see death." Again, in St. John 5:24 He declares that "...he that hears my word and believes on Him that sent me, "has" everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but "is passed" from death unto life."

Because of sin in all of our lives, we have all stood spiritually dead before God at one time or another. This is where that all important question comes in. Is there now, life after birth within you? My dear neighbor, I trust that you will earnestly consider this question for your eternal destiny hinges entirely upon it. Jesus so loves you that he paid the full price for your salvation. You need not do a thing but believe it and receive it to be made spiritually alive in Christ.

The apostle Paul in writing to the church at Ephesus said, "And you hath he (Christ) made alive, who 'were dead' in trespasses and sins." God is no respecter of persons and what he did for those so long ago, he'll do for you right now, right where you're sitting. Don't just simply exist, but invite Him personally into your life for he has come to give abundant life and that life is in the Son. "He that hath the Son, hath life" and I know that that's what we all really want; life after birth!

Show looks at Levesque

Rene Levesque, Quebec's premier, gives his first extended interview to American television on "Rene Levesque: A Portrait of Independence" April 21 at 9 p.m. on Channel 56.

Levesque, elected Nov. 15, 1976, heads the Parti Quebecois, whose goal is to secure the primacy of French language and culture in Canada's largest province. Parti Quebecois hopes eventually to see the province become an independent nation.

A brief documentary introduction to the program tracks Levesque's rise.

Highlights include the formation of the Parti Quebecois in 1968 and Levesque's recent visit to France, where he was treated as a head of state.

The outspoken premier is interviewed by Jack Berry, host of Vermont ETV's "Vermont Report: Canadian Edition," who will talk to Levesque

April 20 in Montreal and will cover a wide range of topics. Subjects will include charges that Levesque is a theorist and, therefore, unable to govern, the importance of American capital to Quebec and the feasibility of political sovereignty for Quebec in an economic association with the rest of Canada.

Harold Rediske
UHT Memorial Funeral Home

Is it wise to plan my own funeral?

It was the Earl of Warwick who said there is nothing more certain than death and nothing more uncertain than the time of dying. He would be prepared for death at all times, he states, and his preparedness would not make him die the sooner, but the better.

This individual insight is very enlightening and practical. We have pre-planned funerals with many members of our community who share some of these same sentiments. Many have expressed great relief in their foresightedness. They say it's a comfort to know everything will be well-handled, and will cost no less and no more than you want it to be.

Rather than permit a third party to arrange things or cause your loved ones the anguish and painful burden of funeral details, you may wish to plan your own funeral down to the smallest details.

Professional assistance.
There are no amateurs on our staff. We are professionals in funeral service. Our experience provides you with advance counsel in your own best interests. Our aim is your comfort. Call or stop by for details—we can provide you with a variety of plans to suit your cost and personal requirements.

Olson joins in 'Palm Tree'

Marine Lance Cpl. Clifford J. Olson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Olson of Sumpter Road, Belleville, recently participated in Exercise "Palm Tree 4-78" in the California desert.

He is serving as a member of the 1st Battalion, 5th Marines, based at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Conducted at the Marine Corps Air-Ground Combat Training Center at Twentynine Palms, Calif., "Palm Tree" tested the capability of a battalion landing team to deploy by strategic airlift and to provide realistic live-fire training. The exercise stressed coordinated air and artillery fire support for infantry units.

Olson joined the Marine Corps in November 1975.

Also in the armed forces: Marine Lance Cpl. Lawrence G.

Pearson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell B. Pearson of Kings Road, New Boston, has been promoted to his present rank while serving with 1st Marine Division at the Marine Corps Base at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

He joined the Marine Corps in February 1974.

Navy Seaman Appren. Paul A. Mulready, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mulready of Michael Drive, Romulus, was graduated from Basic Instrumentman School.

During the 17-week course at the Naval Training Center at Great Lakes, Ill., students received instruction on the procedures to install, service and repair small office machines. They studied the operation and maintenance of electric typewriters, adding machines, electronic calculators, clocks and mimeograph machines. In addition, they were instructed on the proper use of related hand tools.

A 1977 graduate of Romulus High School, he joined the Navy in July 1977.

56 auction tips to get what you want

As the April 7-15 auction draws near, Channel 56 WTVS is offering some useful tips to help viewers get the items they want.

Bidders will have more than 7,000 items to choose from during the nine-day sell-a-thon for public television, including and assortment of fine wines, a catered Greek party for 150 people, Lord and Taylor gift certificates and five automobiles.

To bid, viewers should keep in mind these steps:

(1) Keep pencil, paper and phone close to the TV set.

(2) Spot a desired item and jot down its board and item numbers.

(3) Grab the phone and dial the number shown on your TV screen as quickly as possible. It's important to bid high and fast. The higher the bid, the greater the chances for success.

(4) Once you've placed your bid, keep watching and try to keep cool.

(5) The highest bid will be announced on the air and the highest bidder will receive a confirming phone call. Instructions for pick-up are given at the time of the call-back.

Local celebrities who will act as auctioneers and emcees during the event include Marc Avery, Bob Talbert, Paul Christy, Betty Carrier and Jimmy Launce.

One million viewers are expected to tune in Channel 56 during Auction Week, based on estimates from previous auctions. Here is the schedule of the telecast:

—Friday, April 7, 7 p.m. to 2 a.m.
—Saturday, April 8, 12 noon to 2 a.m.
—Sunday, April 9, 2 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.
—Monday, April 10, through Thursday, April 13, 1 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.

—Friday, April 14, 1 p.m. to 2 a.m.

—Saturday, April 15, 12 noon to 2 a.m.

Last year the Channel 56 Auction raised more than $534,000. Channel 56 hopes to surpass that total this year and has set a goal of $600,000. The money raised is used to pay for the ever-increasing costs of bringing viewers Channel 56 programs.

The station still is accepting donations of merchandise even while the auction is on the air. The station asks that brand new, saleable items worth $50 or more be brought directly to its studios, located on the corner of Second and Bethune, one block north of the Fisher Building.

At extension service

There's help around corner for gardeners

Its office is located at 5455 Wayne Road in Wayne, and it's there to help you garden. What is it? It's the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service, and it's available for consultation or to supply information.

Gardeners can call the extension office at 721-6550 any weekday between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. to request any of the hundreds of free bulletins, covering the gamut of horticulture — lawns, trees, vegetables, insects, fruit, wildlife and flowers.

If the caller has a garden question, horticulturists are available from 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon for a personal consultation.

Unknown symptoms — spots, mildew, perforations — sometimes appear on the leaves of plants as the summer progresses, and the extension service can identify the causes of such symptoms, if a twig with the affected leaves is brought to the office.

If a gardener finds an unknown insect in either his home or garden, it, too, can be brought or mailed in. It will be identified, and recommendations for control will be made. Soils are the basis for good plant growth, so the extension service tests soils for the homeowner. The test results let the gardener know what kind of fertilizer to use and how much. Sometimes the test shows no fertilizer is presently needed, thereby saving money and work for the gardener.

Early spring is the ideal time for testing the soil. Each sample submitted should be representative of the plot. To accomplish this several samples should be composed of soil from the surface down to a depth of eight inches. The several samples should be put into a clean container and thoroughly mixed. Just one cup of this representative mix is needed for analysis.

The sample should be labeled according to what will be grown there — lawn, vegetables or flowers. A $1 fee is charged for the service.

Samples should be mailed or brought to the extension office.

Monthly reminders about lawns, trees and vegetables are available April through September from any library that is part of the Wayne-Oakland Federated Library System. This "Yard 'N' Garden Tips" keep gardeners abreast to the current insects, the effect of weather on this year's garden and the upcoming landscape concerns for each month of the gardening season.

By dialing 728-8000 anyone can hear two minutes of gardening information. These tapes are changed every Monday, Wednesday and Friday and run from April through September also.

If radio is your favorite media you've probably already heard Don Juchartz's "Garden Doctor" spots daily on WWJ at 1:56 p.m. On WJR Angie Raledge gives gardening tips Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 10:45 a.m.

If you prefer television, see Jerry Draheim on Channel 2, "Good Morning, Detroit" each Friday from 7 to 8 a.m. Any of the radio or TV spots provide a mini-course in gardening.

Speaking of course, each spring the Cooperative Extension Service offers a 10-week course in horticulture, beginning in February. Upon successful completion, the graduates are certified master gardeners who help neighbors and friends with garden endeavors.

Master gardeners can keep their knowledge updated by tending many education events sponsored by the extension service. Most of these events are open to the public. A pruning demonstration is held each February; another greenhouse seminar is planned for this fall; and of course, Flower Day is an established event at Eastern Market the third Sunday in May every year. Many other seminars are held from homeowners as well as commercial growers of horticultural crops.

So via whatever media you enjoy — printed, radio, TV, seminars or demonstrations — the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service is ready to meet your needs for horticultural information.

What's for lunch?

Such menu entrees as pizza, Italian spaghetti with meat sauce and sirloin submarine sandwiches will be among the food "whipped up" in the cafeterias of the Van Buren School District next week.

Elementary students will have conference days next Wednesday through Friday, accounting for an abbreviated menu for the week.

On Monday the cafeterias will be serving bowls of chili, hot dogs on buns, french fries, cookies and milk, followed by soup, pizza, vegetable, potato chips, pudding and milk on Tuesday.

In the junior high schools, the menu Monday will be soup, hamburgers on buns, tator tots, fruit Jell-O, chilly things and milk, while a lineup of juice, pizza, fruit, cake and milk will be on tap for Tuesday.

Next Wednesday the cafeterias will be serving Italian spaghetti with meat sauce, vegetable, bread and butter, pudding and milk.

Next Thursday, the bill of fare will be hot turkey sandwiches, with side dishes of potatoes and gravy, cranberry sauce, cobbler and milk.

Closing out the week will be a menu of soup, fishwich, potato chips, cole slaw, cookies and milk.

The alternate menu selections will be pizza submarine sandwiches Monday, Coney Island foot-longs Tuesday, sirloin submarine sandwiches next Wednesday, Belleville burgers with cheese next Thursday and shrimp on buns next Friday.

Weight limit is enforced

Truck weight restrictions currently are being enforced on roads under the jurisdiction of the Wayne County Road Commission. The restrictions took effect March 13.

"Normal axle weight limitations are reduced each year to minimize road damage and remain in effect as long as thawing conditions prevail," a road commission spokesman noted.

Lawn and garden guide

April showers bring out state gardeners

April showers bring Michigan gardeners out of hibernation at last, and Michigan State University Extension specialists suggest the following activities are timely this month:

- Work the garden soil as soon as it's dry enough. (If you squeeze a handful and it forms a muddy clump, it's too wet.) Add fertilizer and lime as needed, following the recommendations from a soil test.
- Early in the month, plant parsley seeds, onion seeds and sets, parsnips, salsify, kohlrabi, turnips, chard, beets, cauliflower, spinach, carrots, radishes, leaf lettuce, early potatoes, asparagus, rhubarb, grapes, strawberries and raspberries.
- Late in April, plant seeds of tomatoes, melons, peppers, eggplant and other tender garden crops indoors for transplanting outside after the danger of frost is past.

- Get motorized lawn and garden equipment ready for the new growing season.
- Rake or dethatch your lawn if it has one-half inch or more of thatch. An early mowing to one inch will remove old, dry grass blades to make way for new growth.
- Roll the lawn after the frost is gone but before it dries out.
- Begin regular mowing when the grass turns green and begins to grow again.
- Do not fertilize lawns now. Research has shown that early spring fertilization increases the likelihood of some lawn disease problems. Hold off nitrogen application until late May or early June.

- Early in April, plant the seeds of fast growing annuals like calendula, marigold and cosmos indoors for transplanting outdoors in May.

- Prepare outdoor beds for annuals. Spade or till in peat moss, sand and fertilizer as needed.
- Save Easter lilies for planting outdoors after the danger of frost is past.
- Begin weekly gladioli plantings in late April. Plant through June 15 for a continuous supply of cut flowers all summer.
- In late April, plant seeds of sweet alyssum, larkspur, cornflowers and annual chrysanthemums outdoors.
- Fertilize perennials.
- Prune winter-damaged trees and shrubs. Deciduous trees and shrubs that bloom after June 30 also may be pruned now. Do not prune spring flowering shrubs like forsythia and lilac. That would remove the flower buds on branches and prevent blooming on portions removed.

- Inspect trees and shrubs for scale and bagworms. Hand pick and destroy bagworms. Each little bag contains hundreds of eggs that will hatch around June 1. Spray scale-infested trees and shrubs with a dormant oil spray when temperatures are above 45 degrees.

- Plant lily bulbs, dormant roses, trees, shrubs and fruit trees.

Bloodmobiles make rounds

Unlike the seasons of the year, community blood needs do not change, and the Red Cross is reminding blood donors that hospital patients throughout southeastern Michigan require more than 900 pints of blood a day.

Eligible blood donors between the ages of 17 (with parental permission) and 66 are urged to visit the Dearborn Donor Center, located in the Village Plaza, 23400 Michigan Avenue, Dearborn.

The center is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Friday, from 2 to 8 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday and from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday.

The Red Cross bloodmobile also will be out in local communities during the month, including:

- April 15, St. Bernadine Catholic Church, 31463 Ann Arbor Trail, Westland, from 2 to 8 p.m. Call 562-9760 for an appointment.
- April 20, St. Richard's Catholic Church, 35637 Cherry Hill Road, Westland, from 2 to 8 p.m. Call 721-9408 for an appointment.
- April 20, the Knights of Columbus Hall, 28945 Joy Road, Westland, from 2 to 8 p.m. Call 421-9500 for an appointment.
- April 23, St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, 35320 Glenwood, Westland, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Call 721-4650 for an appointment.
- April 24, St. Aloysius School Hall, 11280 Ozga Road, Romulus, from 1 to 7 p.m. Call 941-9899 for an appointment.

Toccos return from trip

Ronald and Sharlene Tocco, who reside in Sumpter Township, have just returned from Aruba, Netherlands Antillas. Tocco, a professional photographer and president of Ron's Portraits, was invited by the Michigan Professional Photographers Association (MPPA) to speak at their seminar. His presentation was on senior portrait photography and covered methods of advertising, flow control and maintaining high quality in a portrait studio.

Tocco's Lincoln Park based studio photographs about 3,000 seniors per year and handles candid photos for several high school yearbooks.

Ron is a newly elected Vice-President of MPPA and has recently been appointed to the Van Buren school board.

Help is on the way for 'lemon' auto owners

Help may be on the way for the consumer who buys a "lemon" auto and can't get the problems corrected.

That's the word from State Rep. Edward Mahalak (D-38th District) about one of several consumer interest bills that has been approved

Peace officers are 'victims'

Peace officers, including volunteer peace officers, who suffer personal injury or death as a result of going to the aid of one who has become a victim of a crime is an "intervenor" and therefore eligible for benefits payable under the Crime Victims Compensation Act.

Kelley made that ruling and several others pertaining to the act in a recent letter to State Rep. Thaddeus C. Stopczynski of Detroit. According to Kelley, the act does not prevent a reserve peace officer from submitting a claim for loss of wages. Even though there is no loss of wages by a reserve police officer as a result of his employment by a police department, he may claim compensation for wages lost from employment in the private sector. Kelley also ruled that a police reservist acting in the course of employment is eligible for compensation up to a maximum allowed under the statute.

The Crime Victims Compensation Act defines "intervenor" as a person who goes to the aid of one who has become a victim of a crime and who suffers personal injury. Kelley said because the law makes no distinction between a private citizen who comes to the assistance of the victim and a peace officer who performs the same act the peace officer is covered under the definition of intervenor.

Under the act, awards are reduced by the amount received in insurance or from public money, except in the case of peace officers. Kelley said because reservists on duty as peace officers, they are allowed to collect up to the maximum amount ($15,000) allowed by the law.

by both the State House and Senate. Auto dealers frequently sell installment payment contracts to banks and other financial institutions so that the dealers do not have to wait until all payments have been made in order to receive full payment for the vehicle. The financial institution pays the dealer for the contract and collects the installments, Mahalak said.

This is satisfactory all the way around unless there is something wrong with the car and the dealer does not satisfy the buyer's demands to correct the defect.

The buyer then has no way to force the dealer to make repairs, since the dealer is out of the picture financially. If the buyer attempts to withhold payments to force the dealer to take action, the financial institution is likely to repossess the auto. The buyer is not even able to present arguments as to why he should withhold the payments.

The only course of action for the buyer is to sue the dealer, which can be costly, time-consuming and not necessarily successful.

The Federal Trade Commission

(FTC) ruled last year that any holder of a consumer credit contract is subject to all the defense which the debtor could assert against the actual seller of the goods or services.

"However, this rule does not really solve the problem since the FTC is not equipped with the resources to handle local enforcement of its rule," he said. "The bill approved by the House and Senate would provide local officials with authority to apply the rule as it relates to auto buyers."

There already is existing state law which applies the rule to retail installment sales and home improvement financing.

The bill would allow the buyer of a faulty car to defend himself against the claims of the holder of the installment contract if he withholds payments in an attempt to have the car repaired. The buyer would be able to explain in court why he had stopped payment.

In its recent approval of the House bill, the Senate added an amendment to require that the withheld payments be placed in an escrow account until the claim is litigated between the buyer and the holder of the contract.

The House has approved a bill to protect consumers who take advantage of the trend toward electronic funds transfers.

Nowhere Man?

Every year around this time high school seniors ponder over some ultimate questions like "which road to I choose" or "what career is best for me".

There are a number of avenues a young man and woman can take to answer these key questions, particularly qualified individuals interested in an Army career. With help from school counselors, career exploration can be made an easier task by utilizing the following sources:

- Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery (ASVAB)
- US Army Career and Education Information Center (Educator Package)
- Army Occupational Handbook (AOH), 1976-77
- Dictionary of Occupational

Titles (DOT), Department of Labor

• Military-Civilian Occupational Source Book, Department of Defense, 1975

• And, of course, current newspapers' "Job Ads" and telephone book "Yellow Pages."

The Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery is a valuable exploration tool because it is designed to provide information about high school undergraduates. It can bring into focus both strengths and deficiencies. The ASVAB score can consequently help pin-point the type of job the individual can most excel in, whether in the Army or in the civilian job market.

RESOLUTION 78-132

WHEREAS: Sixty (60 percent) percent of the resident of the State of Michigan are Blue Cross-Blue Shield subscribers, making Blue Cross-Blue Shield the largest health insurance providers in our region, and;

WHEREAS: Blue Cross-Blue Shield's most recent move to deny supplementary health insurance coverage to Medicare beneficiaries, and;

WHEREAS: Senior citizens, most of whom must survive on limited or fixed incomes, have already suffered a thirty two (32 percent) percent increase in Medicare costs through a decrease in deductibles in the last two (2) years, and;

WHEREAS: This most recent anti-people position acted on by Blue Cross-Blue Shield denies needed services and health security to persons most in need, and;

WHEREAS: Blue Cross-Blue Shield needs to be more aggressive in investigating alternative cost serving measures such as cutting physician costs, cutting down on unnecessary surgery and unnecessary specialist consultations and overlapping billing procedures,

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: The Romulus City Council deprecates this most recent anti-people action taken by the Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Michigan, and;

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: The Romulus City Council encourages all people to write to the Insurance Commissioner, Blue Cross-Blue Shield and their State Legislators expressing the disappointment and dismay over this action.

BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED: A copy of this resolution be sent to the Insurance Commissioner, Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Michigan, Detroit Legislators and the Public Service Commission.

10D. Motion by McAnally, supported by Carter, to adopt Resolution 78-144.

RESOLUTION 78-144

WHEREAS: Our sister cities have a complex problem with truck traffic in a North-South pattern; and

WHEREAS: South Eastern Michigan Council of Governments has completed a Truck Traffic Study; and

WHEREAS: It is evident there are a number of problems in developing a truck route in a North-South direction; and

WHEREAS: It is evident there are a number of problems in developing a truck route in an East-West direction that have not been addressed in this study; and

WHEREAS: The study calls for the construction of an overpass for trucks at Fort and Pennsylvania which would be very disruptive to the business community.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: The City of Romulus suggests

A. Further comprehensive study be given to solving the East-West traffic problems.

B. The truck route be designed and constructed with limited entrance and exit ramps.

C. That cities have veto power over designation of truck routes through their respective City.

D. That the Fort Street overpass at Pennsylvania be eliminated from the construction program of the study.

E. That further studies be directed to imaginative and innovative alternate methods to resolve this complex and difficult problem.

BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED: That copies of this resolution be sent to our representatives of S.E.M.C.O.G., Commissioner Sullivan, our neighboring Communities and all effected legislative agencies.

License change eyed

Secretary of State Richard H. Austin has outlined a plan for year-round vehicle registration of motor vehicles in Michigan.

According to the proposal being prepared for legislative consideration, the present vehicle registration system would — in the fall of 1979 — be replaced by a system that would stagger vehicle registration expirations throughout the year on a monthly basis. Under the present system, all passenger registrations expire on March 31.

"Year-round vehicle registration," Austin said, "would eliminate the present March rush and the extended waiting time that citizens encounter then. Despite our best effort to encourage earlier buying, too many motorists wait until the last week. We must change the system.

"A year-round registration system would (1) maintain a more even level of service to the public throughout the year; (2) reduce substantially the extra costs of dealing with the last-minute buying; and, (3) enable a faster and more current update of registration files, increasing their usefulness to law enforcement agencies."

Under the plan being proposed, all passenger cars, pick-up trucks, and small trailers would be placed on a year-round registration system. Large trucks and large trailers and motorcycles, as well as other types of vehicles, would remain on their present registration system.

The proposed conversion to year-round vehicle registration would start in the fall of 1979. As part of this process, owners of vehicles affected would receive new expiration dates for their vehicles which would vary from seven to 20 months. Thereafter, these vehicles would be registered for 12 months.

The purpose of this conversion schedule is to even out the flow of work in the department as the change is made to year-round registration.

Canoe-in planned

Canoe enthusiasts are invited to participate in a "Spring Canoe-In" to be held at the nature center of Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock along the Huron River on April 15 at 1 p.m.

Naturalist Bob Wittersheim will guide the trip along a scenic stretch of the Huron River between Willow and Oakwoods metroparks. The trip will depart from the Big Bend Picnic Area at Willow Metropark and conclude at the Nature Center of Oakwoods Metropark. Participants must provide their own canoe. Transportation will be provided back to the point of origin.

Vehicle entry permits are required.

For more information contact the Nature Center of Oakwoods Metropark at 782-1255 (Flat Rock).

Spring awakes

A special program entitled "Spring Awakenings" will be presented at the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark near Milford on Saturday at 10 a.m.

Longer days, warmer temperatures, singing birds and leaves unfolding herald the start of another round of spring activity. Look for these and other signs of awakening spring activity during a walk along one of Kensington's Trails with naturalist Dave Moilanen.

For information or registration contact the nature center of Kensington Metropark at 685-1561 (Milford).

Status offenders in detention threaten funds

An all-out state-wide effort is underway to remove most status offenders from secure juvenile detention facilities by June 1 — or the State of Michigan will lose millions of dollars in federal juvenile justice funds for next year, according to Wayne County Commissioner Mary E. Dumas who sits on Wayne County's Juvenile Justice Executive Committee and the Michigan Juvenile Justice Advisory Committee.

Wayne County stands to lose some $3 million in federal funds unless "the entire state moves fast to establish alternative programs and additional youth shelters."

Mrs. Dumas made that announcement after attending the recent National Advisory Conference on Juvenile Delinquency in Reston, Va., and a recent Wayne County-Michigan Juvenile Justice Advisory Committee meeting.

"We were told that all states receiving funds under the 1974 Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act (JJDP) must meet a federal requirement that calls for a 75 percent reduction of all status offenders housed in secure detention facilities by June 1," she explained. She said reductions would be based on figures for June 1976.

"The requirement is aimed at separating status offenders (who are youngsters charged as runaways, truants and with other minor offenses not applicable to adults) from juveniles who have committed serious crimes," Mrs. Dumas said. "In addition, it's the government's way of saying 'find alternative treatment and help for youth who commit non-criminal offenses.'"

"The urgency of the county's situation was discussed at the meeting in the Veterans Memorial Building," she added. "The last official head count showed 101 status offenders in Wayne County detention facilities. To comply with the act, we must have no more than 30 status offenders in such facilities when June 1 rolls around." (Wayne County's June 1976 count was 120, calling for a reduction of 90 youth.)

Dumas said the county was averaging seven new admissions a day.

"I don't think we can make it — but I think if we show a clear and concerted effort to meet the federal deadline, along with actual progress, they will show some understanding," she added.

She warned, however, that if other states are all meeting their deadlines, and Michigan is one of a few states that is not, "I think they'll deny us funding next year."

Mrs. Dumas said other big, urban counties in Michigan also were "in trouble as far as having a lack of alternative programs available."

"If just one county defaults on the requirement, the entire state will lose funds — so we must work together," she added.

Mrs. Dumas said the meeting produced "new concern and commitment" to establish the necessary alternative programs. Representatives from local police departments, youth bureaus, the Wayne County Intermediate School District and other school districts, the mental health board, employment agencies and other community and private youth agencies attended the conference.

Counties must establish alternative education programs (specifically directed at problem children who are normal, but who don't fit into a regular school classroom), new counseling programs directed at the families and the status offenders and new mental health programs.

"Private agencies like the Boy Scouts and YMCA are encouraged to step forward and claim these JJDP dollars," she said. "But they must be willing to change traditional attitudes of catering to just the nice kids — and try to help the troubled ones."

The National Conference in Reston was the "first time all 50 states sent representatives of state advisory councils to a national meeting," she added.

It produced a "hot debate" on the government's insistence to disallow funding for any public or private facility that has "a mixed bag of kids, including delinquents and status offenders on the same grounds, even though the youth may be physically separated."

She said the protest was so loud over this requirement that John Rector, associate administrator of the federal Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, promised he'd review the guidelines in April following publication in the Federal Register.

In the meantime, she said, a lot of hard work lies ahead.

15 years of service

Colonel Harland Sanders recently congratulated Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hooten of Belleville on their 15 years of service with Kentucky Fried Chicken, which Sanders founded 25 years ago. The Colonel presented the Hootens with a diamond pin and plaque to commemorate the anniversary. The award was made at the annual meeting of KFC franchisees, held recently in New Orleans.

Bill bars calls

Legislation to enable citizens to bar unwanted commercial telephone calls from their homes has been cosponsored in the U.S. House of Representatives by Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District).

Congressman Ford was a sponsor several years ago of provisions, now in the U.S. Postal Code, which permit citizens to have their names removed from "junk mail lists. The new telephone bill is based on a similar concept.

"Telephone companies would be required to give subscribers the right, at least once a year, to indicate that they do not wish to receive unsolicited commercial telephone calls," Congressman Ford said.

Companies making such calls would have to purge their lists of all persons who have given such notice to telephone companies. The cost to the phone companies for this service would be paid by charging solicitation firms a fee to buy the required "no-solicitation" lists.

The legislation provides for a fine of $1,000 or 30 days in jail per violation, but to allow for honest errors, the bill stipulates that no prosecution would be started until at least 10 complaints were filed against a single firm.

"Let me emphasize that the bill applies only to unsolicited commercial calls," Congressman Ford said. "It would not affect non-commercial calls such as charities, churches and poll-takers, for example."

"We are not going to tell a company or a salesman that they have no right to sell or try to sell. We are simply allowing the citizen to exercise his elemental right to privacy in his home."

"In fact," Congressman Ford added, "a number of telephone marketing firms have expressed approval of the bill. They would be pleased to have a list of persons who do not want solicitation calls, so that their staffs wouldn't waste time calling them."

Congressman Ford noted that an estimated seven million persons are called each day by telephone sales personnel. A marketing industry survey reported that less than a third will listen to the presentation.

"Our bill will provide a service both for the citizen who does not want to receive these calls, and for the companies who use telephone solicitation as a sales technique," Congressman Ford asserted.

TODAY'S

by M. Phyllis Crabtree

Millions of Americans own not one house, but two. According to the Census Bureau figures, an estimated 1.7 million families have second homes. And the number is steadily growing as other families acquire second homes at a rate of more than 150,000 a year. These second homes come in all shapes and sizes. They range from primitive hunting cabins to modern A-frame ski lodges to lakeside cottages to expensive, glass-fronted beach houses. What is your pleasure?

Close to work, close to transportation, school or place of worship, or whatever your needs may be, CENTURY 21 COMMUNITY REALTORS, 10675 Belleville Rd., has a wide listing of homes in every area, to fit every need. WCC opens registration for new term Registration for spring and spring-summer classes at Washtenaw Community College will begin Monday and continue through April 21.

Registration for new, re-admitted and continuing students can be made by calling 973-3641 from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. or at the Registration Center, located on the second floor of the college's learning Materials Center before Monday.

New students should arrange to attend a brief registration orientation session before enrolling.

The Registration Center will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day, and from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. next Wednesday and April 20 to accommodate extended day students.

Tuition must be paid in full at the time of registration. In-district resident fees are $14 per credit hour, Michigan out-of-district fees are $27 per credit hour and out-of-state resident fees at $38 per credit hour. Those enrolling by phone will be billed and payment must be remitted within seven days following the registration call.

Registration for students wishing to attend only summer session classes will be scheduled for June 5 through June 16.

Parents wishing to enroll and in need of child care, can sign their youngsters, up for the college's Children's Day Care Center for the hours they will be attending class or be studying on campus. The center is open between 7:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Additional information about the center is available by calling 973-3539.

Registration priorities for spring and summer sessions between Monday and April 13, will be given to students by the following listing:

Monday — BUP-DUL, morning and DUM-IAM afternoon.

Tuesday — MUO-ROL morning and ROM-VAN afternoon.

Next Wednesday — VAN-Z morning and A-BUO afternoon.

Next Thursday — IAN-KLG morning and KLH-MUN afternoon.

For additional information and class schedules call the Registration Center at 973-3641 or the Counselor's Office area at 973-3463.

Surinem Bush people are topic of 56 program

In the 17th century, hundreds of slaves shipped from Africa to South America rebelled and began a 100-year guerilla war that gained them freedom from their Dutch masters.

The descendant of these rebel slaves are the subjects of the documentary "I Sought My Brother" to be seen April 18 at 8 p.m. on Channel 56.

In the 1970s, two American Blacks from Harvard University, Dr. S. Allen Counter and David Evans, visited and filmed these tribesmen who inhabited the remote jungles of Surinam, formerly Dutch Guiana. Alex Haley, author of "Roots," hosts the 90-minute special and James Earl Jones narrates.

In 1972, Counter and Evans first penetrated the bush to visit the descendants of the rebel slaves. What they found in the South American jungle was an African culture that had been preserved nearly intact for 300 years.

Counter and Evans were the first North American Blacks ever to be seen in the bush, and it took three years before they felt close enough to the villagers to bring a camera crew in and begin shooting.

Captured on film is the purification ritual that the two Americans must undergo before entering the village and a funeral procession in which everyone in the village participates.

Also shown is the shrine where the bush people maintain their most sacred relics—muskets and swords used by their forefathers against the Dutch.

Nutrition: The what, why and where of it

BY SUE McDONALD
ANP News Editor

You get up in the morning, grab a quick cup of coffee and head for work...Breakfast isn't one of your big meals. At Lunch you gobble down a quick salad and diet drink before getting back to work. After work you have a quiet drink before settling down to dinner—a dinner that can range from a gourmet delight to a reheated TV dinner. Your full belly tells you that you've eaten, but it may be awhile before your body lets you know if its nutritional requirements have been met.

Nutrition and nutrients...they all part of today's world of RDA grams, dieting and the art of reading labels. But what do they mean?

Nutrition is the process by which the body converts food into energy, body tissues and regulatory substances. In short, it is the major determinant of good health. But to understand what nutrition means to our body, we have to understand what nutrients, their functions and primary food sources.

According to "Guideline for Good Health", nutrients are found in all foods that are needed by the body to function. They provide for growth and repair of tissues, furnish energy and heat and regulate the body processes.

Nutrients are categorized as protein, carbohydrates, fats, vitamins, minerals and water, and each category has its own functions.

Protein, carbohydrates and fats are the only nutrients that supply energy—calories and kilocalories. Fats supply more than twice as many calories as protein and carbohydrates, and when coupled with carbohydrates, fats are the least expensive sources of energy.

Protein is involved in the growth and repair of tissues, the structure of all body cells, the maintenance of normal fluid balance, regulation of body functions and the production of antibodies to fight infection and disease.

The protein category, however, is broken down even further into complete—providing all the essential amino acids which cannot be produced by the body in sufficient amounts to support growth and repair—and incomplete—lacking one or more of the essential amino acids.

Carbohydrates function as the main source of energy for all tissues, including the brain and nervous system and the source of glucose for nerve tissues.

Fats are concentrated sources of energy and of essential fatty acids, while vitamins are involved in the maintenance of the body processes and normal development and in the effective use of nutrients by the body.

Minerals are the "building materials" for bones, teeth and other tissue, such as blood and nerves. Minerals also are involved in the regulation of the body's processes and the maintenance of normal fluid and acid-base balance.

The last of the nutrient categories is water, which is essential and the major constituent of all body cells. Now that you know all about nutrients, the question that should come to mind is: Where do we find what we need?

Complete protein can be found in animal products—meat, fish, poultry and dairy products—while vegetable products, including grains, supply incomplete protein.

Remember, essential amino acids must be served at the same time in order to be used efficiently by the body. Therefore, it is important to select complimentary vegetables. Some such pairs are red beans and rice, split peas soup and bread sticks, tossed salads with garbanzo beans and bulgar wheat and peanut butter and bread.

Twelve vitamins are needed in sufficient amounts every day, but if what you eat supplies five of the vitamins—A, thiamine, riboflavin, C and D—the others usually will be present in adequate amounts.

Food should be selected carefully so that it supplies two minerals—iron and calcium. All others are widely available in beverages and food.

Okay...Now you know about nutrients and where they can be found, but how much do we need each day?

Recommended Dietary Allowances (RDA) is something we see on almost any label. Established by the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academy of Sciences and the Food and Drug Administration, RDA and U.S. RDA respectively were designed to simplify the calculation of daily nutrients needed.

RDA and U.S. RDA are the levels of intake of essential nutrients considered adequate to meet the known nutritional needs of almost every healthy person. RDA is categorized in 17 ways, based on age, sex and body build, while U.S.

RDA, the most frequently used in nutrition labelling, has four classifications based on age and sex.

The difference between these two is simple. U.S. RDA was developed for nutrition labelling purposes and is a modified version of RDA.

But remember that U.S. RDA and RDA are recommendations, not requirements and are based on the average needs of each age group and customary activities. So don't fret if one day you fall below the levels, then exceed them the next. Your body will compensate.

Now that you know about nutrients, what they are, where they are found and how much you need, go out and eat. And remember this:

"The U.S. RDAs and nutrition labelling serve as guides to selecting foods and evaluating your daily nutrient intake. Meal planning should not become an intense mathematical exercise."

Springtime fun

Spring supposedly arrived on March 21, but didn't cooperate for Easter. But the cold weather, didn't stop kindergartners at Walker School from enjoying for springtime fun before the holiday break. The youngsters put their best artistic talents to work, creating bunny ears and bonnets. With a little encouragement from ANP photographer Tom Greenwood, two of the students decide to swap hats, with five-year-old Carey Taylor donning the bunny ears and helping her classmate, five-year-old Jimmy Day, try on her bonnet.

8 visit New Orleans on 10-day bus tour

The following Belleville residents—Cora Bradshaw, Esther Burlingame, Richard and Martha Coffelt, Mae Fielder, Effie Kerbyson and Saunders and Evelyn Smith—returned home March 25 after a 10-day southern bus tour to New Orleans.

Enroute they stayed at and enjoyed sites in Nashville, Tenn., and Vicksburg, Miss. The tour of the Civil War cemetery, now a national cemetery, sightseeing many antebellum homes and watching the annual Confederate Pageant, the highlight of the gala month of March in the City of Natchez and "where the South still lives" was breathtaking.

The group never will forget crossing the world's longest bridge via Lake Pontchartrain Causeway and the next four nights in New Orleans at a hotel next to the French Quarter. The historic city was viewed day and night in the French Quarter, along Bourbon Street and cruising on the mighty Mississippi River, eating at a plantation, shopping and enjoying French and Creole cuisine and left little time for boredom.

On the way home, the Berlingrath Gardens and collection of antique furniture, priceless silver and rare porcelains, fine china and crystal were viewed at Theodore, Ala., as well as a look at the SS

Alabama near Mobile, which proved interesting. The travellers were members of the Senior Citizens Society of Michigan.

Pamela Hopson of South Lyons accompanied her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Willis of Van Born Road, on a delightful trip to Florida. The trio visited Ed and Betty Shumbers, formerly of Belleville, in St. Cloud. They went to New Port Richy and Disney World, and Betty was fortunate to dance with Lawrence Welk in St. Lawrenceburg.

Mrs. Alice Wittrick of Riggs Road and Elmer Schultz of Tecumseh returned last week from a fun-filled two-week vacation in Las Vegas.

Mrs. Bobbie Glenday, formerly of Belleville, and her daughter, Mrs. Jerry Ann Hoffman of Orlando, Fla., spent the Easter weekend visiting Bobbie's sister, Mrs. LaVada Bearer of Belleville. The women also enjoyed a visit to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. McClintock of Grosse Pointe Woods, the occasion being their parents' anniversary and father's birthday.

The Raymond Schultzs of Martz Road enjoyed having Raymond's family for a coop-style dinner and visit on Easter Sunday.

Mrs. Natalie Coy

Kendall of Lake View Drive has returned home from a two-week motor trip to northern Michigan, visiting Mrs. Maude Canfield in Top In Bee.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Brinkeroff and their sons of Riggs Road spent Easter Sunday in Jackson, visiting Keith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Brinkeroff.

Mrs. Juanita Akers of Liberty Street spent Easter Sunday visiting her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Don Berry of Westland. Juanita is feeling much better since she was in a car accident in Detroit several weeks ago.

Mrs. Sarah LeMoine and her sons, Robert and Craig, of Livonia and Mrs. Marge Potter of Liberty Street enjoyed a luncheon at the High Street home of Aldine Potter March 28.

Mr. and Mrs. James Goble of East Wabash Street enjoyed a family dinner on Easter Sunday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hale, grandson Jimmy of Milan and granddaughter Pamela of Ann Arbor, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hendrickson of Belleville. They celebrated Warren and Jim's birthdays also. Mrs. Claudia Hale and Kim have been in California visiting her mother.

The Fay Ferguson home on Judd Road, Belleville, was the scene of a family Easter gathering. Mom's home cooking was enjoyed by Roger and Diane Ferguson and children Leslie, Shawn and Shari; Bob Ferguson and children Donna and Mike, all of the Belleville area, Lee and Marie Doser and son Stephen from Dexter; Richard and Lennie Ferguson and daughter Sandy of Plymouth.

Later in the afternoon the Roger Ferguson family went to the home of Art and Verdys Shephard on Elwell Road, Belleville, for a light supper and a surprise birthday party for Mrs. Pat Shephard. Also there was her husband Jim and their two children, Daryle and Kimberly; and Brian and Nancy Shephard.

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Park E. Gregory were their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Scott A. Silvenis, and daughters Leighann and five-week-old Laura Marie from McHenry, Ill. Joyce and her daughters spent a week with them, while Scott made a business trip for his employer, Baxter-Travenol Laboratories, to Cleveland, Miss.

Other callers at the Gregory home were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Silvenis and Mrs. Chris Lockre.

Joyce and Scott also spent some time at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Silvenis.

Both sets of grandparents, and great-grandmother Mrs. Jeannette Wargo, were introduced to little Laura Marie for the first time. Laura was born on Feb. 12 in Woodstock, Ill.

The Silvenis returned to McHenry on Palm Sunday, March 19.

Over the Easter Holidays the Park E. Gregorys were guests for Easter Sunday at the home of their daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gardner of Chaney Street, Belleville. Others enjoying Easter there were Richard's sister and brother-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Leif Meland, and children Eric and Millisa. Also Richard's brother Kaye Gardner called during the day.

T.D. First Class and Mrs. Robert B. Gregory and daughters Heather Monica Brenda, and Joann arrived on March 27, from Great Lakes, Ill., to spend a short time with their parents Mr. and Mrs. Park E. Gregory. Robert is teaching electronics at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gardner and children, Jessica and Robert also joined the family for a combination Easter dinner and celebration of the Senior Gregorys 36th wedding anniversary on March 27.

Robert and family returned to Great Lakes on March 29.

Bake sale is successful for Romulus seniors club

Our bake sale on March 17 was a huge success. Many people had a sweet tooth for the fine cakes, pies, and cookies.

Our 50-50 raffle is going strong. We have more tickets being printed. We're hoping for a sell-out before the May 9 drawing.

At our March 14 meeting we were to have had a speech on protection in the home by a member of the Sheriff's Department. Instead Sgt. Ron Brown surprised us with a movie on alcoholism, narrated by a Catholic priest. It was a highly entertaining and informative movie, explaining how to recognize and help the alcoholic person.

On March 19, 45 Romulus seniors attended Ice Capades at the Olympia Stadium. It was a beautiful sight, and everyone enjoyed it. We ended the evening with dinner at the Cantonese Village Restaurant in Westland.

On March 21 we enjoyed our combined pot-luck and Easter dinner at the VFW Hall. The ham, prepared by Wilma Pomroy, was delicious, as were all the other dishes brought by the members. There was enough ham left over for ham sandwiches at our next meeting.

Marie DeBuyscher, recreation director in Romulus, was our honored guest.

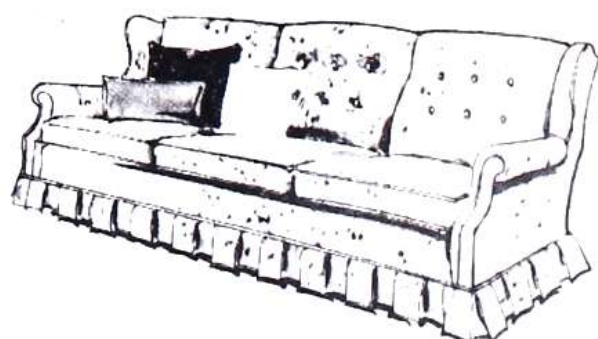

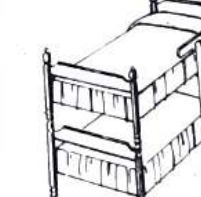

We would like to thank the ladies who set up the tables and those who provided the flowers for the tables.

After dinner we enjoyed music, provided by Ernie Block, violin and saxophone, Charlie Kitzmiller, violin, and David Ries, guitar.

At our March 27 meeting Mary Ann Banks, Mayor Pro-Tem, installed Adelia Wilson as second vice-president of our club.

We're hoping for a sellout before the May 9 drawing.

Our club is conducting a newspaper drive during the entire month of April. To make arrangements for pickup call Vince Parratta at 941-2416 or David Ries at 721-0832, or if possible deliver to Vince Parratta at 35281 Eureka Road, Romulus.

Salad buffet:
Brighten it up with grapes

When women gather for lunch, either at home or in a restaurant, chances are they'll choose a main dish salad — especially the slim ones and those with slim aspirations.

So if the card club, political committee or PTA is meeting at your home soon, you'll please everyone with a salad buffet inspired by the old fashioned favorite, the Waldorf. This version is as fresh and exciting as the offerings in your store's produce department, and its serving style works well for a party of five or 50.

Traditionally, Waldorf means apples, celery and walnuts, but this new version adds fresh grapes for color and crispness, and slices of cheese and cooked ham for added nutrition.

If the party is small, one handsome arrangement of all the ingredients will allow each person to fashion an individual salad of greens for the foundation, diced apple, chopped celery, a sprinkle of walnuts, grapes pulled from their stems, along with slices of cheese and ham. Here's a nice opportunity to use decorative grape scissors — if you have them. The seedless table grapes grow in large, handsome bunches, often weighing a pound or more.

If you use the whole bunch, for its decorative effect and place the scissors alongside, guests can snip off serving-size clusters for their own plates.

If the party is a large one, arrange two or more serving centers so there won't be a crowd waiting while one person designs a salad to her taste.

Although this salad menu is ideal for a warm day, the ingredients are almost seasonless. Fresh grapes of one variety or another are in our markets most of the year. The early seedless varieties of late spring are followed by red, black and green seeded grapes as the season progresses. Any kind gives the crisp, juicy touch this salad really needs.

If the weather is cool, give the party a warm start with a cup of hot consomme beforehand. For a festive touch, serve it from a chafing dish and ladeled into demi tasse cups. It takes the place of any other aperitif. A bit of sherry in each cup brightens the flavor considerably.

For all grapes recipes as well as for refreshing out-of-hand snacking, you'll want to be sure to select plump grapes that cling to pliable, green stems. Grapes are wonderfully convenient, too. Just wash them under a gentle spray of water and pat dry with paper towels before snacking or adding to recipes. There's no need to wait for ripening, either. Grapes are ready to be enjoyed when harvested.

Calorie counters may build their salads with lots of greens and grapes, both valuable assets for a slimming diet. They'll also appreciate a low-calorie dressing. Others with more diet tolerance can layer the fruits, nuts, cheese and ham and top it all with a fluffy, mustard-scented dressing.

VINELAND WALDORF

- Salad greens
1 pound seedless grapes, pulled from stems
1 cup diced celery
1/2 cup broken walnuts
1 green or red apple, diced and tossed with 1 tablespoon lemon juice (1 1/2 cups)
1/2 pound cooked ham, cut in strips (1 1/2 cups)
1/2 pound Swiss or Jack cheese, cut in strips (2 cups)
Dressing (recipe follows)
On platter, lined with salad greens, decoratively arrange all ingredients except dressing. Serve at once or chill. Pass dressing. Makes 8 servings.
- DRESSING: Whip 1/2 cup whipping cream. Blend with 1 cup mayonnaise and 1 teaspoon prepared mustard. Makes 2 cups.

"Statistics show that most 2-car collisions are caused by failure to yield the right of way. Calling such encounters accidents is as much a misnomer as calling a barroom brawl an accident."

Sydney J. Harris said it.

Party honors
Mrs. Florin

Some 200 persons from throughout the State of Michigan were on hand March 22 to pay tribute to Edna Mae Florin, a member of Belleville Chapter 73, Order of the Eastern Star.

Mrs. Florin was appointed chairman of the Obituary Committee for the Meinhart-Malacos Grand Family, Order of the Eastern Star of Michigan, at the dinner, hosted by Chapter 73 and held at Belleville High School.

Presentations made to her during the evening came from Belleville Chapter 73, Electra Club, Past Matrons of Belleville, her own officers in 1973-74 and the Grand Family of Michigan. Her co-workers sent her an Easter floral arrangement.

The Worthy Matron Elizabeth James was mistress of ceremonies. Music for the evening was by the high school's Jazz Band.

SAM-RUNYON

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Sam are proud to announce the engagement of their daughter, Antoinette Marie, to Dennis James Runyon of Belleville. The young couple are 1976 graduates of Belleville High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Runyon of Jackson Street, Belleville, and is employed at Ford Motor Co.'s Rawsonville Plant. A Nov. 25 wedding is planned.

Susan Harner, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. Harner of North Shore Drive, Belleville, recently completed extensive training at the Trans World Airlines Breech Training Academy in Overland Park, Kan. Following completion of the instruction she was awarded her TWA flight attendant wings. She assumed her new duties with the aviation firm this month and is based on St. Louis, Mo.

He places first in national test

An eighth grader at Belleville North Junior High School has placed first in the National Standard Iowa Algebra Aptitude Test.

Ty Wyman, the son of John and Jan Wyman, scored 71 out of a possible 80 on the test, which was given nationwide to eighth grade students. According to the school's assistant principal, Ty's score "is one of the best, if not the best" ever recorded at North Junior High.

The 14-year-old is post center on North's basketball team and is considered an outstanding punter and corner back on the school's football team.

An avid football player, Ty has been kicking a football ever since he could hold one, according to his mother.

No longer rare

Ten years ago nearly 70 percent of premature infants had brain damage, but because of changing trends in medicine, specifically in the care of infants and newborns, that percentage has dropped to less than 10 percent. And at Children's Hospital of Michigan, a makeover in its neonatal units has made the future a little brighter for high risk infants. A tiny baby in an isolette of the hospital's intensive care unit may take up only a small amount of space, but the life-saving equipment in the newly remodelled unit may require up to 100 square feet. The nursery is the largest in the state.

High risk new borns: Children's Hospital meets challenge

Every six hours a newborn child in distress is rushed to Children's Hospital of Michigan (CHM) in the Detroit Medical Center for special care needed to save the baby's life or prevent brain damage. It is estimated that 2 to 3 percent of all newborns require more than routine care.

"We are able to support patients through problems that used to kill them," said Dr. Ronald Poland, director of the neonatal unit. "We encourage doctors always to send us the baby when they have doubt about his or her ability to survive."

Infants from 50 hospitals in Michigan are brought to CHM. To meet the growing demand and changing medical technology in intensive care, the hospital opened a completely remodelled special care unit for newborn infants on Jan. 25. The new center doubles the number of patients that can be cared for. It is now the largest perinatal unit in the state and one of the largest in the country, with space for 12 acute care and 48 premature or intermediate care babies.

Babies with Hyaline Membrane Disease (the respiratory disorder that killed Patrick Bouvier Kennedy) are routine cases today in the neonatal intensive care unit at Children's Hospital. Ten years ago, 70 percent of premature babies had significant brain damage. Today at CHM less than 10 percent do.

Cardiac surgery to repair congenital heart defects is performed frequently on newborn babies at CHM.

"I didn't know they could do heart surgery on someone so young" said Norman Morgan of Flint whose week-old son Charles had surgery the day after he was born.

Some of these tiny patients in intensive care require up to 100 square feet of hospital space for such life-saving equipment as respirators, cardiac monitors, blood warmers and radiant heat warmers. But Dr. Poland points out: "The sophistication is in how to use the equipment, not in the equipment itself."

Dr. Poland is assisted by another full-time neonatologist (a physician specializing in the care of newborns), three physicians taking post-graduate training, and a staff of more than 90 specially-trained nurses. Each nurse in intensive care is assigned to only one or two patients while one nurse in intermediate care monitors four patients.

In addition, the 80 full-time CHM physicians in sub-specialties like pediatric surgery, cardiac surgery, anesthesiology and hematology are available when needed.

A new concept in how infection spreads allowed the hospital to add 18 beds for patients in the same amount of space used in the old unit. In the 1960s (when the previous unit was designed), patients were separated from parents and staff to prevent infection. Parents could only see their baby through a window.

Epidemiologists today have shown that simply washing hands with soap before touching patients can control the spread of infection. Therefore, the glass viewing corridor which took up nearly 40 percent of the space has been eliminated, allowing parents to have physical contact with their babies.

"We want parents to touch and hug their kids," Dr. Poland said. "We have a whole emotional support system here besides the respirators and other technical advances."

Dr. Poland and his staff are concerned about the psychological needs of the mother as well as the newborn child. Before the baby is transferred from the hospital where he was born, a member of the transfer team from CHM (made up of a nurse, a medical resident and a respiratory therapist) makes sure the mother has seen and touched her baby. As soon as the child arrives at CHM, an instant picture is taken and sent to the mother. She is encouraged to visit the baby on her way home from the maternity hospital and as often as possible afterwards.

"It is important for the parent-child relationship to be established and nurtured from birth," said Dr. Poland. The staff involves parents in feeding and caring for the child as much as possible.

Weekly meetings are held for the parents so they can talk about problems with each other and with CHM social workers, psychiatrists or psychologists.

The special care nurseries, brightly decorated with colorful graphics, appear spacious, with see-through windows replacing walls between rooms. In addition, all the equipment is moveable. Wall service modules provide outlets for oxygen, compressed air and electricity. This gives the unit maximum flexibility in the rapidly-changing field of intensive care. New equipment can be added or old equipment replaced with ease.

In 1972 when the old unit was opened, special care for newborns was rare. Now it is common. Intensive care increased because it is cost-effective, according to Dr. Poland. For every dollar spent in an intensive care unit, more than $4 in chronic institutional care is saved as the number of brain-damaged children is reduced.

Housework: It's not like it used to be

"This is the day we wash the clothes, all on a Monday morning..."

It was so simple then. Monday was washday; Tuesday was ironing. Each task took so long, no one ever had to ask what homemaker did all day. She worked.

But what has happened to her day in this age of labor-saving devices?

"Recent studies have shown the time spent doing housework actually has increased in several areas over the past 40 years," said Margaret Sanik, a home economist working on a Cornell University time and household production study. "Today's homemaker seems to have expanded the scope of the job and raised her standards so that even more time is spent on housework."

"In the early part of the century, there was nothing unusual about wearing a suit or a shirt for several days in a row. Today it's unthinkable. One wearing and the clothes are in the wash." One of the most frequently asked questions concerning the homemaker is: What does she do all day? To begin to formulate an answer to this question, a time-use study was conducted in New York in 1967-68. And, a 10-year comparison survey is being implemented in several states this year.

"We have broken down all the household tasks into 10 major categories & food preparation; dishwashing; shopping; housecleaning; maintenance of home, car, yard and pet; physical care of family; non-physical care of family; clothing care; construction of household clothing and linens; and management," Ms. Sanik. "Family members are given charts with a 24-hour period broken down across the top and these 10 household task categories plus outside activities written down the side. The family then accounts for all time spent in a two-day period."

The most striking feature emerging from this date was the amount of time the husband spends doing housework. Regardless of whether the wife worked outside the home, or the number and ages of their children, the husband's time input was markedly less than the wife's.

"Although there are many claims of households being run on a 50-50 basis, those proportions seem to be way off," Ms. Sanik noted. "For example, if there are no children in the household and the wife is not employed, she averages 5.7 hours per day on housework, while the husband puts in 1.4 hours."

"If the wife is employed, her time decreases to 3.7 hours, but the husband's decreases to 1.2 hours. However, if they have one child, a non-employed wife spends 7.5 hours and her husband 1.7 hours. If the wife is employed, she averages 5.1 hours and her husband 1.9 hours."

The addition of a second child increases the work load even further.

"With a total workday averaging 11 hours in households where the wife is not employed, and 9.8 hours in homes with employed wives, the husband's input remains about the same — and the wife's increases," the home economist explained. "and the age of these children also can greatly alter the time spent. Almost three additional hours are required to care for a baby instead of a teen-ager."

If the average workday of a full-time housewife is 8.6 hours, how is it divided?

"As any housewife knows, a day generally is 10 minutes here, a half-hour there..." Ms. Sanik said. "But the greatest amount of time is devoted to food preparation. This varied from 2.3 hours daily for full-time housewives to 1.5 hours for women who work outside the home. These women tend to turn to convenience foods, fast food and restaurants more frequently."

Family, home and clothing care take the next largest chunks of the homemaker's day.

"A wife spends 1.6 hours on family care if she is not employed, .6 hours if she works outside the home. However, these women generally have older children," Ms. Sanik noted. "The 1.6 hours of housework a full-time housewife does daily is cut to 1.1 hours, if she is employed."

MISS SPINO

MISS MCCORMACK

They're engaged

SPINO-MEIER

The Valentine's Day engagement of their daughter, Debra Ann Spino to Wayne Charles Meier is proudly announced by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Spino of Haggerty Road, Belleville.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Belleville High School and Central Michigan University. She is a teacher at West Willow Elementary School in the Van Buren School District.

Her fiancé, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Meier of Cloverlawn, Ypsilanti, is a former graduate of Belleville High School where he was a drum major his senior year. He attended Ohio State University, where he was employed at the University Hospital while attending school.

He presently is employed at GM's Hydra-Matic Division's Willow Run plant.

MCCORMACK-WARD

St. Stephen's Catholic Church in New Boston has been chosen for the May 27 nuptial of Deborah McCormack and Michael P. Ward.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Bill and Doris McCormack of Clark Road, Belleville. She is a 1972 graduate of Huron High School.

Her fiancé is the son of Harold and Shirley Ward of Huron River Drive, New Boston. He attended Huron High School, then served three years in the U.S. Army in Germany, during which time he completed his education. He currently is employed by Stearns Manufacturing of Flat Rock.

Philodendron loses split

Michigan State University Extension specialists answer timely questions on houseplants, vegetable gardening, lawn care and related topics:

Q: My split-leaf philodendron is now producing leaves that aren't split, even though the plant is green and healthy looking. What's the problem?

A: Lack of light, nutrients or moisture may be responsible for plants losing their cut-leaf characteristic. At this time of year, the most probable cause is low light. Try moving the plant into a more brightly lighted area. If this doesn't do it, consider the other two possibilities.

Q: I put my leftover garden seeds in an old cupboard in the garage last summer and forgot about them until the seed catalogs came this year. They were out there all winter. Is there a chance they're still good?

A: Freezing usually kills most garden seeds. If you had a large quantity of bulk seed, some of the seeds toward the center of the package may have been sufficiently insulated by the others to survive, but it's unlikely. If you want to be sure, plant a few seeds in vermiculite, water, cover with plastic and set in a warm spot — not direct sun — and see if anything comes up. Next year, store leftover seeds in a tightly closed container in a cool, dark spot indoors.

Q: What can I do about a patch of moss in my lawn?

A: You can use chemicals to control moss, but chemical treatment often is a matter of curing the symptom rather than the underlying problem. Moss in a lawn usually indicates poor soil aeration, poor drainage, low soil fertility, high acidity, shade and/or high humidity. Even alkaline or droughty soils can support moss growth, if all the other conditions are present. Close mowing of nonaggressive turfgrass types tends to make lawns prone to moss, too. A combination of chemical control — including lime, if soil is acid — removal of dead moss plants and correction of the environmental problem that promoted moss growth often is necessary to rid the lawn of moss.

vative to use on wooden containers for outdoor plants? I don't want to build a bunch of patio containers and window boxes and have them all rot away in a couple of years.

A: Creosote and other common wood preservatives that contain either tar or pentachlorophenol should not be used around plants. Fumes from these materials are highly toxic to plants. They will burn plant foliage and kill roots. Use instead wood treated with copper naphthenate.

Travel service visits da Vinci's sunny Italy

The fabulous life and work of Leonardo da Vinci will be on tap for armchair travellers when the Wayne-Westland Family YMCA presents the sixth program in its Travel and Adventure Series Saturday.

Narrated by Phil Walker, the film will follow da Vinci from his birthplace through his exciting travels and masterpieces, done in sunny Italy. In the film journeys through his life, "tourists" will relate to the people and places of modern Italy. Travellers will discover the magnificent medieval and Renaissance buildings and famous art works of Florence and capturing Venice and her unusual setting, colorful gondolas and unique character.

Milan, the capital of Italy's richest region and also the country's largest industrial centers, is on the itinerary. The city is one of Italy's liveliest intellectual spots and the home of the famed La Scala opera house.

And the biggest tourist attraction in the entire country, Rome, will be visited along with its many fascinating sights.

Walker grew up in northern California and in Carmel-by-the-Sea. He recalls his boyhood on the Monterey Peninsula as an "intimate friendship with the out-of-doors and an introduction to adventure."

In an early experience he sailed a 75-foot boat from Sydney, Australia, to Cebu City, the Philippines. The voyage lasted several months and encountered a variety of thrilling circumstances along the Great Barrier Reef and the northern coast of New Guinea.

In 1961 he flew with two Swiss from Switzerland to Italy and became the first American to cross the Alps in a free floating hydrogen-filled balloon, an experience that was featured in the 75th anniversary edition of the National Geographic Magazine.

Walker also is an actor in Carmel's summer Theatre and later joined NBC, producing his own independent programs for television. His decision to become a full-time producer of travel and adventure films freed for the type of life he enjoys most — filled with travel and meeting new and interesting people along the way.

The program will be shown at 8 p.m. Saturday in the auditorium of Wayne Memorial High School. The school is located at the corner of Glenwood and Fourth streets in Wayne.

Mark Robbins (rear) as Major John Andre and Jim Birdsall and Cynthia Dozier (front) as Benedict and Peggy Arnold will appear in the Hilberry Theatre production of "American Silhouettes" by Jonathan Anderson. This is the first $5,000 award winner in the newly established Nederlander national playwriting competition, co-sponsored by the Nederlander Theatrical Corporation and Wayne State University. The historical drama opens officially April 20 and will continue in the Hilberry repertory through May 20. Ticket information is available from the box office at 577-2972.

PHIL WALKER

Hilberry Theatre stages 'American Silhouettes'

The Hilberry Repertory Company's premiere production of Jonathan Anderson's "American Silhouettes," winner of the Nederlander Playwriting Award, will open officially April 20 at 8:30 p.m. This follows two tryout performances the weekend before and a special preview for theatre sponsors on April 19.

The author, formerly a singer and actor, has since 1961 been working as a musical director and conductor in the professional theatre. He currently is rehearsing "Camelot" in New York and will be conducting the performances of this musical at the Fisher Theatre in Detroit this coming summer.

Anderson's past credits include Broadway productions, national companies, and Lincoln Center and City Center musicals, as well as off-Broadway, stock, dinner theatre and television productions. Among them are "Annie Get Your Gun" with Ethel Merman, "Camelot" with Richard Burton and Julie Andrews, "Much Ado About Nothing" with John Gielgud, "The Visit" with Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, "South Pacific" with Florence Henderson, and "Kismet" with Alfred Drake. "American Silhouettes" is a historical drama based on the conspiracy involving Benedict Arnold, his wife Peggy, and British Major John Andre. It is Anderson's first prize-winning play and his first to be produced. The cast is headed by Jim Birdsall as Arnold, Cynthia Dozier as Peggy, and Mark Robbins as Andre. Other principal roles are played by Erick Devine, Bruce Matley, Geoffrey Beauchamp, Douglas McBride and Gerald B. Roe.

The production is directed by Robert Emmet McGill, with scenic design by Greg D. Roehrick, costumes by Ellen Ryba and lighting by Gary M. Witt.

This marks the first award to be given in this newly established national competition, co-sponsored by the Nederlander Theatrical Corporation and Wayne State University, and named in memory of David Nederlander, the late head and founder of the Nederlander organization. The winner was selected by a panel of well-known American theatre personalities: critic Richard Coe, directors Alan Schneider and Duncan Ross, producer Norris Houghton and historian Oscar Brockett.

Anderson wins $5,000.

Mr. Anonymous, Harold Graham, dies

By MAUREEN BEATTY
Regretfully, Mr. Anonymous will no longer be contributing to this column. On March 27 I received the sad news that Harold Graham, 70, of Westland, had passed away during the weekend. The seniors and staff at J Building and kirk of Our Saviour Church have lost a good friend.
Harold Graham was a man who could add something of interest to any conversation; his scope of knowledge being vast. Most days he had a humorous story to tell, for he was always trying to bring a little sunshine into the lives of those he met. he also had a very deep side. This at times, caused him to be a little alarmed with the direction the world seemed to be taking, for he was a man endowed with yesterday's morals.

One seldom stopped to realize that Harold Graham lived alone, and therefore, was probably lonely, but he never complained. When he spoke of his wife whom he had lost a number of years ago, it was never with bitterness that she had died, but with joy for the time she had lived.
Harold Graham once had a pet he cared for so much that upon his death he was moved to writing the following poem. I'd like to share it with you as my tribute to Harold Graham.

TO CHARLES - REQUIEM
Beneath majestic maple shade
A mound of earth is freshly made,
Where last remains were gently laid
To rest forever more.
'Neath garden plot he loved to roam O'er close cropped grass and well turned loam,
He's found at last, his final home
To keep forevermore.
No stone will ever mark the spot
That is his own, his lonely plot.

The unmarked grave his final lot,
In life he had a friend.
A long and happy life had he,
He always knew security,
Down through his last senility,
Because he had a friend.
If, in this life, one thing be true,
To have a friend, then be one too.
I knew it well, my friend did too
This truth he understood.
And tho i gave him home and care,
To me he gave a love so rare,
Undoubting trust, forever there,
Unquestioning loyalty.
His race is run, his days are thru,
He was my buddy tried and true.

A better friend I never knew -
My speckled mongrel dog.

Splash! 31 swimmers honored on All-Area

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

In 1974 Rick Kogelschatz was an intrepid freshman at Cherry Hill who couldn't at that time realize that he would be the greatest swimmer in the annals of the school.

Four years and a score of championships later, Rick ended his auspicious prep swim career as one of the finest swimmers in the state, an unprecedented four-year member of the elite All-Area Swim Club and a host of offers to perpetuate his athletic career at some of the finest colleges in the nation.

All of this was nearly destroyed three months ago when Rick came down suddenly with a sinus infection which forced him to stay out of the waters until the last two weeks of his senior season.

"He is the best swimmer in this school's history," said Cherry Hill Coach Jerry Pawloski. "I can't say enough about him. He accepted his misfortune courageously. In fact, at the state meet I tried to ease the pain, but Rick replied: 'Hey, coach, I'm just happy to be here."

Kogelschatz has had an outstanding career. His accomplishments include winning league titles for four consecutive years, Western Wayne titles and setting a state record at 52.2 in the 100-yard butterfly which earned for him as a junior the coveted state crown in that event.

Rick has scored close to 900 points during his four years as a member of the Spartan varsity squad and was selected as a member of The Detroit News' All-State team.

This year, after losing two months because of illness, Kogelschatz came back to help Cherry Hill win its eighth Tri-River Conference championship in 11 years, finish fifth in the state teamwise in Class B. He was a member of the Spartan medley relay team that placed third in the state, while he finished sixth in the 50-yard freestyle and fifth in the butterfly.

"Rick swam in the state finals though he wasn't nowhere near 80 percent fit," Pawloski said. "One can only speculate what he would have done if he was healthy."

Kogelschatz, along with 31 area high school swimmers, are being honored today as members of the ANP's elite All-Area team.

Joining Rick from the Spartan club are Scott Lillie, Gary Schuler, Tracy Hissong and Eric Wohlfeil.

Lillie is an 18-year-old senior who has won state titles for the last two years. He was the top performer in Class B in the 100-yard butterfly, capturing the gold with a 52.6 effort, just four-tenths of a second off of Kogelschatz' record-setting performance a year ago. Scott was voted the Spartans' MVS (Most Valuable Swimmer) as he chalked up 274 points this season, one short of Rick's record a year ago. He swam on both Spartan relays - the medley which finished third in the state and the freestyle, a fifth place state-finishing quartet while he captured the league titles in the 50 freestyle, 100-yard backstroke.

"Scott is a tremendous competitor who hates to lose," added Pawloski. He's the kind of swimmer who will accept the challenge and do everything he can to win."

Schuler is probably the best distance swimmer in Cherry Hill's history. The 18-year-old senior also ranks as the most underrated for his talents.

"Gary was Mr. Everything" on this team," Pawloski said. "He'd fill in and pick up the slack where we needed it the most."

Schuler was a member of the Spartan medley relay team that won the conference title, however didn't swim with that team in the state finals. He was pitted in the field for the 200-yard freestyle and just missed qualifying for the finals when he finished eighth. He holds the varsity record for the 500-yard freestyle at 5:02 and is a member of the all-conference team in three events - 200-yard individual medley, 500-yard freestyle and the 400-yard freestyle relay team. He will continue his education and athletic career at Evansville University.

Wohlfeil not only sparkles in the water by in the classroom as well. Only 16, Eric is a senior who has the distinction of being a member of the National Honor Society for the past four years. A avid devotee to the sport and practice, Wohlfeil has attended 118 of the 119 practices scheduled by Coach Pawloski. He is an alumnus of the All-Area and All-Conference teams and a member of the Spartan relay teams that finished third (medley) and fifth (freestyle) in the state this year. He just missed out qualifying for the state finals in the 100 yard freestyle where he placed 13th.

"Eric is probably one of the best freestyle swimmers that I have ever coached," noted Pawloski. "He is a dedicated swimmer."

Tracy Hissong is one of the premier swimmers that the Spartans will have in their line-up next year. The 16-year-old junior completed his second year on varsity, competing on the third-place medley relay team and also qualifying for the state finals in the breaststroke.

Voted the team's Most Improved, Hissong, is an intense competitor which Pawloski pointed out, "sometimes works against him."

"He tends to try too hard at times," the veteran Spartan coach offered. "And, sometimes you can have that backfire on you."

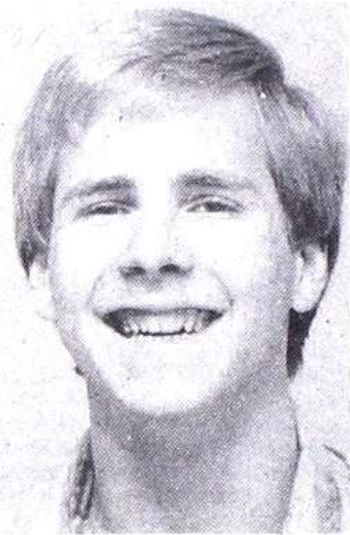

Wayne Memorial's contributions to this year's elite team include a diver, a distance freestyler and a versatile tanker who did just about anything.

The diver, Scott Papke, is a junior who captured the Garden City East Invitational title, a title the Zebras also stashed away in a perfect 12-0 dual meet season. Scott placed third at the prestigious Western Wayne Invitational and was third in the Great Lakes 8 Conference. He qualified for the state.

"He is a very improved diver and potentially a league champ next year," said Wayne Coach Jim McPartlin who also is being honored today as "The Coach of the Year" for his superb year which included the Great Lakes 8 Conference championship and chalking up a perfect 12-0 record, the first undefeated Wayne swim team in the high school's history.

David Hills also has a year of varsity competition ahead of him. As a junior, the 16-year-old swimmer compiled an impressive record. Though he finished second in the 200-yard freestyle (1:50.2) in the conference, Dave came back and lead a four-man Wayne sweep in the gruelling 500 freestyle setting a

Jerry bows out as swim coach

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Why do all good athletes marry the cheerleaders? Strange thought.

But that's what crossed my mind while Cherry Hill's head swim coach Jerry Pawloski explained his reasons why he didn't want that job any more. After all, the 35-year-old former Detroit Holy Redeemer three-sports man had coached swimmers for the past 11 years - and 11 years later he felt it was time to call it quits.

Jerry however will stay on as the high school's varsity head football coach and as the attendance officer.

Pawloski has become a legend, of sorts, to his faithful swimmers, some of whom have developed into the best in the state.

"There comes a time in every man's life where he has to make a decision, a sort of priority decision, Pawloski said. "I love coaching, but my three children have grown to the point where they need their father around more."

"You got to remember that I start my coaching season at football and it goes right on until the end of the swimming season - that's nearly eight consecutive months where I am involved in after school activities."

"I don't think it's fair to the kids and my wife, so I handed in my resignation."

JERRY PAWLOSKI

Jim Dolloway, the high school's athletic director, said he was sorry that Pawloski is bowing out as the swim coach, but respected his decision and is now in the market for a new head coach. Pawloski will remain as the Spartans head grid coach.

Ironically, Pawloski never swam competitively in high school or college. He starred for the Lions (Holy Redeemer) in three sports - basketball, football and baseball and was awarded a scholarship to the University of Buffalo where in his senior year he was named the team's co-captain. He specialized at the end slots both on defense and offense, (back in the early 60's players usually did play both ways.)

It would have been a natural for Pawloski to coach football or basketball or baseball at Cherry Hill, but 11 years ago those positions were filled, so when the school district build a swimming pool, Jerry got the job as head coach and slowly began the groundwork for a program which won eight Tri-River Conference championships in 11 years and produced 12 all-state swimmers.

In fact, last year the Spartans finished second to Grand Rapids Ottawa Hills in the race for the coveted Class B state title and with Rick Kogelschatz returning to a veteran-latent line-up this year, many thought the Spartans would rise to the top of the pack.

Unfortunately, Kogelschatz, who set a state record for the 100-yard butterfly at 52.2 came down with a severe sinus infection during the second half of the recently concluded season and wasn't able to compete at full strength. He managed to help the Spartans finish fifth, the third time in the last three years that Cherry Hill wound up among the top five teams in the state.

Pawloski's efforts also has produced premier swimmers such as Randy Wehremeister, Scott Lillie, Mark Cottter, Dave Koslosky who are heavily recruited by the colleges.

A gregarious individual who will give kindly of his time and energy, Pawloski has been the prime force in gathering the weekly All-Area Listing which has appeared on these pages for the last seven years.

He was one of the initial forces behind organizing the Western Wayne Swimming & Diving competitions and the All-Area Teams which appear with today's edition.

Over the 11 years Cherry Hill has had 45 league championships, something even the state powers like Birmingham Groves or Dearborn would find difficult duplicating and he leaves behind a career record of 129 victories and 20 losses, a record that could stand up against the greatest of the greatest.

Now back to that question about athletes and cheerleaders.

"I met Ilene while in high school and we've been a natural team ever since."

JIM MCPARTLIN

McPartlin is 'Coach of Year'

Wayne mentor has 'perfect' season

Some coaches wait a lifetime before they are able to design a team that can go undefeated in their particular sport.

However, 29-year-old Jim McPartlin, given the challenge to build Wayne Memorial's swimming program five years ago reached the epitome of success this season as he forged an undefeated swim team.

McPartlin's Zebras chalked up a perfect 12-0 dual meet record and by doing so became the first team in the school's long history to finish a swim season with a perfect record.

The season also included the Zebras' second consecutive Great Lakes 8 Conference championship as well as the Garden City East Invitational title.

For his success, The Associated Newspapers are proud to single out McPartlin as its Swim Coach of the Year.

A product of the Lincoln Park School system, McPartlin swam for Coach Ray Martin's Railsplitters in the tough Huron Valley Conference which was dominated by the likes of Dearborn and Edsel Ford. Upon graduation, Jim entered Henry Ford Community College where he also continued to swim and helped the Hawks as a freestyler and individual medley specialist to capture the national junior college swim title in 1967 and finish runner-up in the nation the following year.

McPartlin received his bachelor's degree from Eastern Michigan University and upon graduation was employed by the Wayne Community School District. He served as an assistant coach for two years to Rick Savage and moved up to the head coaching job in 1973.

Never doing anything spectacular, McPartlin's pattern for victory is "getting kids to swim at a young age."

He helped organize the summer swim programs sponsored by the school at the Wayne Recreation Department.

"Our success is the result of age group swimming programs as well as a marked improvement in our junior high swim programs," McPartlin pointed out. "Of course, the parental support we get from those involved in our swim program has provided us with the momentum that has helped us to field competitive teams."

With 12 seniors on the roster, what will happen to the Zebras next year?

"I feel we're going to have a good team next year," McPartlin said, "but we won't have the depth we had this year - that's for sure."

Jim is married to Cheryl who also was a long-time Lincoln Park resident that received her high school education from Detroit Holy Redeemer. Cheryl also is a graduate from Eastern Michigan University.

school and conference record for the event at 4:53.4. He was the first swimmer in Wayne's history to break the five minute barrier. He qualified for the state finals in the 500 and emerged as the 13th best for that event in the state. Hills also won the East title in the 500.

Harold Sleicher is McPartlin's third "blue chip" tanker who holds impeccable credentials including three school records: he is the fastest Zebra in the 200-yard individual medley (2:10.2), the 100-yard backstroke (59.7) and is a member of the record-shattering 200-yard medley relay team.

Sleicher was a triple winner at the East Invitational as he struck gold in the IM, the backstroke and was a member of the relay team. He finished third in the league in the backstroke, fourth in the 200-yard IM, and brought the curtains down to an outstanding swim career by qualifying for the state.

Dan Butler will be back a year from now to continue his achievements in the backstroke. The 16-year-old junior placed fourth in the league and sixth in the Western Wayne in his specialty.

Livonia Franklin, which has shared the Northwest Suburban Conference championship for the past two years and went undefeated in the league this season, has three standout performers who deserve All-Area consideration. They are Mike Balnaves, Barry Everingham and Gary Sellars.

Balnaves is a three-year performer for Coach Larry Teahan's Patriots who amassed a 9-4 over-all and a 4-0 conference record this season.

One of Balnaves' rare accomplishments is that he has been a league champ all three years in high school. As a sophomore Mike won both the 100 and 200 yard freestyle events and as a junior he came back to capture the 50 and 100 freestyle titles, then this year he chalked up victories in both the 200 and 100 freestyle events.

Balnaves earned all-state consideration as a senior when he propelled himself to a sixth place finish in the 200-yard freestyle in a time of 1:46.1. He was eighth in the state for the shorter 100-yard freestyle, covering the distance in 48.6.

Mike's successors will have to erase his records for the 50 (22.7), 100 (48.6) and 200 (1:46.1) freestyle events and he also was a member of the Patriots' record-setting 400-yard freestyle team.

"It was super having Mike around the team these past three years," said Teahan. "And I just hope I could have kept him here for another three years."

Balnaves is another one of those brilliant students who has caught the attention of General Motors. The executives at G.M. think so highly of Balnaves' scholastic ability that they have offered him a scholarship to the General Motors Institute which turns out top-notch engineers.

Balnaves and teammate Gary Sellars were the Patriots' most dependable and consistent swimmers, according to Teahan.

Sellars, also a senior, captured league titles in both the 200-yard individual medley (2:08.0) and the 100-yard backstroke (1:04.1) and qualified for the state finals in the backstroke where he finished 15 in the impressive field.

"When I needed a first place in the I.M. or backstroke," said Teahan, "Gary always came through for us. He is also an excellent student."

Everingham, 17, completed three years of varsity diving competition and won the coveted crown in the Northwest Suburban Conference. He qualified for the state regionals the last two years but didn't make the trip to the state.

Barry has been almost undefeated in dual meet competition. He has lost only twice during the last year.

If you notice that all three Franklin representatives are seniors, you'll probably understand the predicament Teahan is in for next year. Of his 20 swimmers, ten will be wiped out because of graduation.

"I just don't want to think about next year," moaned the Patriot coach. Do you blame him?

Plymouth Salem is rising from the depths of the tough Suburban 8 Conference to become a respected swim member of a league which has been dominated by the state power, Dearborn, in the past. Coach Chuck Olson's proteges are proving they are Rocks only in nickname and can compete with the best of them. And here are six good reasons: Craig Finley, Jeff Stella, Mike Etienne, Rob Kuebler, Kirk Albert and Tom Rubadue.

Finley is a 15 year-old sophomore who has already clocked a 4:52.4 for the 500 freestyle which has given him a gold in the conference. Craig finished 10th in the state in the 500, but, though his forte is the freestyle, he isn't restricted to that one style.

"Finley can swim all the strokes well," said Coach Olson. "He started to swim in the sixth grade and has improved each year where he is a top-notch state-caliber swimmer. Fans are going to hear a lot about him before he winds down his prep career."

Stella is also a sophomore who basically is a I.M.-er. He finished fifth in the conference in the individual medley with a 2:10 effort and also was pitted in the breaststroke where he touched in eighth with a 1:05.9.

Etienne is the Rocks' captain and workhorse, according to the Salem coach. A versatile swimmer who is best when entered in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle, Etienne finished fifth in the conference in the 100 (50.3) and helped the Rocks finish fourth at the conference championships.

"Mike does everything you ask him to do," said Olson. "He's a fine leader who helped make this team one of my best."

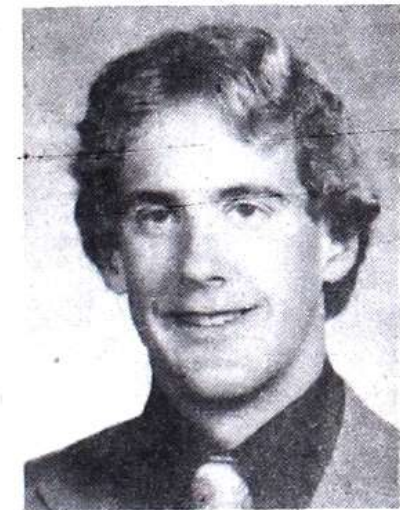

Kuebler is also an 18-year-old senior who specialized in the butterfly, an event he finished third (56.1) in the league. He just missed qualifying for the state finals in the butterfly but made the trip to the finals with the medley relay team, anchoring it.

The future is also bright for Albert, a 16-year-old sophomore who this season was the fifth best tanker in the league for the 100-yard butterfly. He touched in in that event at 56.5. He also finished 10 in the conference in the individual medley, turning in a 2:13 for his efforts.

"Kirk is a natural swimmer and because he is multi-talented in the water he will help us out a lot in the future," said Olson.

Rubadue holds the school record for the 50-yard freestyle (22.5), which was the third best time for the event in the conference. He also placed fourth for the 100 freestyle in the league, churning out a 49.9.

Curtains going up on Westland Ice Review

Getting ready for the 1978 Westland Ice Review are petite Maureen Obert, 9 (from left), Gail Obert, 11, and Lisa Skora who will make their ice debuts April 8 at the Multi-Purpose Arena in a program put together by figure skating instructors Diane Daniels, Pat Schoenborn and Valerie Chase. Carol Fox and partner Richard Dalley, who recently competed in the United States and World Figure Skating Championships in Ottawa will make guest appearances in the two-day program.

At Multi-Purpose Arena

International skating star in Westland Review

With such outstanding talent as Carol Fox of Westland and her partner Richard Dalley of Lathrup Village on the program, Westland is ready to bring up the curtains to the 1978 Ice Review.

The review will be staged on two dates: April 8 at 8 p.m. and on April 9 at 2 p.m. at the Westland Multi-Purpose Arena, 6210 North Wildwood.

There will be a special performance for senior citizens and handicapped persons on April 8.

The program was put together by figure skating instructors Diane Daniels, Pat Schoenborn and Valerie Chase and is sponsored by the Plymouth Figure Skating Club.

Miss Fox has practiced in the Multi-Purpose Arena with her partner, Richard Dalley, for the past two years. The couple began skating together five years ago and were ranked eighth in World Dance Competition in recent international competition staged in Ottawa, Canada.

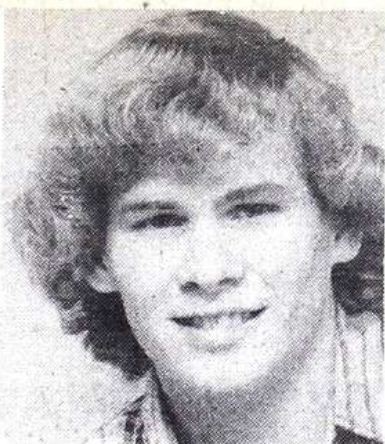

Last February, Miss Fox and her partner took part in the United States nation dance competitions and skated off with a second place trophy. The two skaters have set their sights on making the United States Olympic team.

The two will skate to the tune of "What I did for Love" in the local review.

Fans will also be treated to a program which will include the Westland Troupe performing "P & R Circus", "The trail Dusters" and a "Medley of Classics."

"There are many other features in the show this year," said Ralph Tack, director. "I know that people who attend will not go away disappointed."

Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children 14 and under.

DARAN ARMSTRONG

Daran, Jurewicz also are picked all-league

Daran Armstrong and Tom Jurewicz who led Westland John Glenn to undisputed possession of the Northwest Suburban Conference basketball championship received another post-season honor as they were selected by the league coaches to the all-conference team.

Armstrong, a svelte, deft ball-handling guard who was the mainstay of the Rocket attack, and Jurewicz, who carried the burden of the boards at both end of the courts, were named to the first team.

They are joined by Chris Baker, Livonia Franklin's junior center, Jim Dziekan, of Garden City East,

At Albion

Nibert selected 'MVP' cager

To almost no one's surprise, John Nibert was named the Most Valuable Player of Albion College's 1977-78 basketball team at the squad's season-ending banquet sponsored by the Albion Chamber of Commerce at the Holiday Inn of Albion Thursday Night.

Nibert, a 6'5" junior center from Westland, was the most decorated individual in the MIAA this past season, winning the league's co-MVP honor and then gaining national recognition by being selected to regional and national NCAA Division III All-Tournament teams. In addition, he was one of 16 players recently selected by the NCAA to represent the United States in international competition in Mexico City, April 8-11.

The graduate of Wayne Memorial High set a single-season scoring record at Albion with 511 points in leading the Britons to a 21-6 record and a third place finish at the Division III nationals.

Flint sophomore guard Gary Nichols was named the team's Most Improved Player. Although only 5'10", Nichols led the squad in dunks this past season, and averaged 8.7 points per contest.

Warren junior forward John Costa shared the team's Best Defensive Player award with Nichols. Although he only averaged 3.7 games per game, his presence at the other end of the court was invaluable.

Concord junior forward Brian Jurasek and Nibert were dubbed as the squad's Best Offensive Players. Jurasek, a transfer from Jackson Community College, was the team's third leading scorer with a 12.8 average, scoring many of those points on shots from the perimeter. Nibert averaged 18.9 points a game to lead the team in scoring.

Also honored at the banquet were the team's co-captains from the season past, Tony Kern, South Lyon

A co-captain, Tom swam in all of the freestyle events this year.

A young and determined Plymouth Canton finished with their best record and fell short by one victory of winning the Western Six Conference championship. Coach Bill Faunce had several good reasons why his team developed into a title contender. They are sophomore Petersen, Bob Cline, Steve Wood, Dave Tanner, and Mike Gaab.

Though he is only a 15-year-old sophomore, Petersen already holds the Chiefs' point-scoring record at 295. Breaststroke is his forte and his 1:01.7 in the event is a school record which also qualified him for the state finals where he finished sixth. Though he turned in at a slower time of 1:02.8 in the state finals, the result qualified him for all-state recognition. Peterson also finished 10th in the state in the breaststroke, (54.3), an event he won in the conference.

Undeclared in the breaststroke this season, Petersen was not only the top performer in his specialty in the league, but he annexed the WW crown in that event. He also won the 200-yard medley title at the WW at the prestigious Detroit News meet, Paul was the fourth best breast-stroker.

"Paul is definitely one of the up-and-coming swimmers in the state," said the Chiefs' coach. "He is a hard and dedicated worker who is developing into a first class swimmer and person."

Cline also will be back on the Canton squad. The 17-year-old junior is in his third year as a varsity performer and is equally effective in the distance freestyle and backstroke.

Bob was runner-up in the conference in both the 200-yard individual medley (2:07.9) and in the 500-yard freestyle (5:08.9). He qualified for the state finals with the 200-yard medley relay team, swimming the backstroke leg. The Chiefs finished 14th in the event on the state level. He is also a member of the record-shattering 400-yard freestyle relay team which finished 15th in the state and holds the school record for the 500-yard freestyle. He is one of the tri-captains.

Wood ended a four-year stint with the varsity team, using his ability in the butterfly and freestyle to give the Chiefs an enviable 11-1 won-lost record.

Steve was the top performer in the butterfly (56.3) at the Western Wayne and was a member of the winning 400-yard freestyle relay team that was tops in the conference. He holds the pool record for the 100-yard butterfly (57.4) and was designated as a team tri-captain for his leadership abilities.

Tanner is a 17-year-old junior who is co-owner of the Chiefs' 200 yard freestyle record and a member of the record-setting freestyle relay team. Primarily a middle distance man, Dave excels at the 100 and 100 yard freestyle events and captured the conference championship in the 200 with an impressive time of 1:52.1. He also swims on the medley relay team and anchored the freestyle relay team. A tri-captain, Dave will indeed give the Chiefs a lift for their bid next year as the best team in the Western Six.

Gaab also will be back. A 17-year-old junior who qualified for the state finals as a member of the freestyle relay team, he helped set a school record in the latter event.

"Mike has a lot of potential," said Faunce, "and because we're losing Wood to graduation, Mike is going to have to step in and fill the shoes. Gaab also can swim the butterfly event, if needed."

Though much can happen from now until Coach Faunce calls his troops together next fall, no one is naive to think that the Chiefs won't figure as an area and conference power. Off of this year's squad, Faunce is losing only four swimmers to graduation.

"We have a very good nucleus coming back," he acknowledged, which could be the understatement of the post-season.

Belleville reached another milestone in swimming as Coach Sam Vicchy's Tigers retained for an unprecedented fourth year the coveted Western Wayne Invitational title.

The Tigers, left in the shadows of the state power, Dearborn in the league, nailed down second place in the conference and managed to finish with a dazzling 14-2 over-all record.

And here are some of the reasons why Vicchy's troops were so impressive this year:

Terry Caves, an 18-year-old senior who has three years of varsity experience behind him managed to scrape up the points in the individual medley and the backstroke. Caves was the fourth best swimmer in the league in the 200-yard individual medley as he turned in a 2:08.8, while he placed seventh in the backstroke (1:00) and swam on the third place medley relay team which qualified for the state finals. At the WW, Terry placed fourth in both the backstroke and the IM and will heading for Ypsilanti upon graduation to attend Eastern Michigan University.

Mike Sherwood is only a sophomore and has already established himself as a man to reckon with in the area and the conference. The 16-year-old swimmer helped on the medley relay team, placed ninth in the 50-yard freestyle and 10th in the 100-yard freestyle. He was a member of Vicchy's medley relay team that earned a third place medal at the WW.

Howard Renton wrapped up his prep swim career with a lot of hardware which included second place medals for his performances in the league for the 200-yard freestyle (1:48.4) and the 500-yard freestyle (5:02.1). A member of the Tiger varsity squad for the past three years, he has been instrumental in forging Belleville's image as an outstanding swimming power. He qualified for the state in the 200-yard and the 500 yard freestyle events and was a member of the Tiger freestyle relay team that finished 12 in the state at Michigan State University.

He was clocked in a 4:55.3 for the 500 in the preliminaries and is considered among the top freestylers to swim for the Tigers.

Dana Thorp follows in the footsteps of Belleville's great divers who have set the patterns of victory in the area and Western Wayne. Thorp established a WW record when he piled up 419 points and went on to qualify for the state finals where he was forced to settle for a 14th place finish. Dana and Kevin McKelvey provided the Tigers with a clear 1-2 punch at the Western Wayne competitions. Thorp also earned a third place medal at the conference championships while McKelvey was fifth with 439.3 and 382.1 points, respectively.

Mike Staelton, just a sophomore, has tied the school record in the 100-yard freestyle (50.4) and is well on his way of becoming an outstanding performer. He finished third in the 50-yard freestyle at the WW and was a member of the Tigers' record-breaking 400-yard freestyle relay team.

Scott Hennells is making his third appearance as a member of the elite All-Area club and the 17-year-old senior is among those who fit the description of "versatile swimmer". He finished third in the conference in the breaststroke with a 1:04.3 clocking and was a member of the Tiger medley relay team that qualified for the state.

Chris Liedel's contribution to this year's Tiger squad included a pair of seventh places at the league meet, finishing with a 1:53.3 in the 200-yard freestyle and a 51.7 for the 100-yard freestyle. Chris also help make up the line-up for the record-setting freestyle relay team which finished second in the league and qualified for the state. He has been a member of the varsity squad for the past three years.

Thomas, handicapped with an injury early in the season, came back to win a fourth place ribbon in the 200-yard freestyle in the conference with a 1:51.4 showing, and swam a 5:05.3 for the 500-yard freestyle.

Vicchy will have Thomas back in the line-up next year and the 16-year-old junior could be the man to beat in the middle distances during the 1978-79 season.

And that, fans, is the ANP lineup - one that any coach would be proud of.

You're invited to see films

Area baseball fans are invited to view the 1977 All-Star Game and World Series on films which will be presented by the Wayne Jaycees.

The films will be shown 1 p.m. on Saturday at the Jaycees' Hall, 34630 Annapolis. There is no charge and refreshments will be available.

Van Patrick Memorial golf tourney date set

Plans are being finalized for the second annual Van Patrick Memorial Invitational to be played at the Dearborn County Club.

The date for the tournament is June 26.

Mickey Patrick, son of the well-known Detroit Lions and Mutual Broadcasting System sportscaster who died of cancer in 1974, is heading up the committee for this year's tournament.

Last year's tournament raised more than $27,000 for the American Cancer Society. Lane Adams, executive vice president of the New York Office of the American Cancer Society, called it the most successful first year tournament of its kind.

Letters have been sent to numerous celebrities and the committee is hopeful that many of them will be able to attend and play in this year's day-long affair.

Faust Bianco, head pro at the Dearborn Country Club, is serving as golf and rules chairman for the tournament while Dr. R.L. Callaghan, former country club president, is the marshal and ranger chairman. Club member Bill Knopp is in charge of ticket sales.

Persons interested in playing in the tournament are asked to contact The American Cancer Society in the Fairlane Towers in Dearborn. The telephone number is 336-0030.

Other team members honored at the banquet were juniors Milton Barnes of Saginaw and Tim Zeeman of Swartz Creek; sophomores Eric Harvey of Flint, Daryl Matchell of Battle Creek and Dave Riewald of Bloomfield Hills and student assistant coach Steve Bender, Niles senior.

have been many this season, and the team's top performer during the past year, John Nibert, has been selected as one of 16 players to represent the United States in international competition at Mexico City, April 8-11.

Nibert, a 6'5" junior center from Westland who prepped at Wayne High established himself as one of the best little big men in small-college basketball in leading the Britons to a co-championship in the MIAA and a third place finish in the NCAA Division III basketball tournament. He averaged 18.9 points per game and 10.2 rebounds per contest.

The team is made up of players from Division II and III schools. Nine of the players are from squads that participated in the Final Four of each division's national tournament. The head coach of the squad is John Chaney, from the Division II champ, Cheyney State. Assisting him will be Dan McCarrell, coach of the Division III titlist, North Park.

Among the other Division III players named to the squad were Michael Harper and Modzell Greer of North Park, Dennis James of Widener, Larry Tillery of Stony Brook, Paul Miernick of Scranton, Pat Dennis of Washington and Lee and Rob VanEssen of Ashland. The Division II players named were Jerry Prather of Florida Tech, Charlie Thomas of Eastern Illinois, Tom Anderson of Wisconsin-Green Bay, Andrew Fields of Cheyney State, Harold Robertson of Lincoln (Mo.), Brian Matthews of Towson State, Clemon Johnson of Florida A & M and Arvid Kramer of Augustana (S.D.).

The All-Star award is just one of many awards that Nibert, a graduate of Wayne Memorial High, has received this year. He was named theco-MVP of the MIAA this season, to the All-Tournament teams at the Division III Nationals and the Great Lakes Regional, and MVP at the Marshall Optimist Tournament.

In addition to the host amateur squad from Mexico, teams from Cuba, Panama and the Dominican Republic have been invited.

The basketball competition is one of three sports which American college All-Star teams will take part in during April. The wrestling competition will be held April 5-8, and the gymnastics April 12-14. The games continue in five other sports through December.

Paponetti sets WSU record

Former Belleville High School diver Ray Paponetti has completed his freshman season of collegiate diving at Wayne State and established a new one-meter varsity diving record.

During the Tartars 7-9 dual meet season Paponetti scored 269.85 during a Tartar dual meet to set the new varsity standard on the one-meter board.

The performance also qualified Paponetti for the NCAA Division II Swimming & Diving Championships which were held March 16-18 at Springfield College (Mass.) During the nationals Paponetti also competed in the three-meter diving event.

During the regular season Paponetti ranked ninth on the squad in dual meet points scored with 49. The point total included 2 firsts, 12 seconds and 3 third place finishes during the Tartars 16 dual meets.

The coaches also honored six on the second team. They include: Pat McBride (John Glenn), John Zannis (Franklin), Harold Beard-sley (North Farmington), Tim Mather (North Farmington), Jerry Bradford (Thurston) and Mitch Preston (John Glenn). All six players are seniors.

Honorable Mention were awarded to Tim Fazzini (Thurston), Ron Nutter (North Farmington), Tim Taylor (Garden City East), Joe Emery (Garden City East) and Edward Bates (John Glenn).

Tournament time

Wolverines busy on mats

The long and tiring trip to Adrian was a rewarding one for seven members of the Wayne-Westland Wrestling Club who competed in the United States Wrestling Federation District Tournament.

The local grapplers chalked up five first places and returned with a second and fifth place medal.

The Wolverines looked good in the 13-14 year old age group where Robb Paciocco, Tom Schimansky and Keith Zimmerman walked off with first places.

Zimmerman was the top 155-pounder and Schimansky proved unbeatable in the 140-pound class while Paciocco was the top performer in the 95-pound category.

Kirt Campbell defended the Wolverines' prestige at 115-pound in the 11 and 12 year old age group and he won the top award, then Dan Schimansky and Mike Conboy got their share of medals in the 9-10 age group. Schimansky won the 70-pound bout and Conboy was fifth at 75.

The Wolverines only other medalist is Chris Zimmerman who settled for a runner-up medal in the eight and under age group.

At the Southeastern Michigan Age Group Regional Tournament, sponsored by the Wolverines, the local group fared well as they harvested seven medals for their performances in the eight and under age group; one in the 9-10 classification and three and four respectively in the 11-12 and 13-14 age classes.

Zimmerman excelled as a 8 and under heavyweight, winning the title while Marc Sundberg (72), Richard Nastal (58), Brian Gabriel (67) were second place finishes. Rodney heavyweight for 13-and-14-year olds, Chris Zimmerman (heavyweight) and Marc Sundberg (72) all were third in their respective weight classes.

Dan Schimansky captured a gold medal as a 68-pound class for 9 and 10 year olds while Kirt Campbell was the best 11-12 year old, 112-pounder. Also in that age group, Ronald Nastal and Jeff Sundberg finished third in the 86 and 105 pound classes, respectively.

Keith Zimmerman was the No.1 heavyweight for 13-and-14 year old, while Robb Paciocco was runner-up (95) and teammates George Asher and Tom Schimansky finished third at 80 and 138 pounds respectively.

In their only other outing on the mats, the Wolverines made the trip to Algonac for the state meet and returned with one gold medal thanks to the efforts of Kirt Campbell (112), while Keith Zimmerman finished second at 155 and George Asher (80), Chris Zimmerman (heavyweight) and Marc Sundberg (72) all were third in their respective weight classes.

Pee Wee hockey champs

Chalking up an impressive 28-5-2 won-lost-tied record, the Bob & Al's Collision skaters earned the conference title in the Pee Wee Division (ages 11 and 12) of the Westland Hockey Association. The team, ranked seventh in the state, also had the MVP in the Adray League in Mike Murray who led the local skaters to a playoff victory at Lakeland. Members of the team are Mike Vascillo (seated from left) Phil Kaske, Steve Rochwal, Scott

Juchartz reappointed to rec board

Donald D. Juchartz of Belleville, Wayne County Extension Director, has been reappointed to the State Recreation Land Acquisition Trust Fund Board by Governor William G. Milliken for a term expiring on January 11, 1981.

The appointment is subject to Senate confirmation. Juchartz is presently chairman of the trust fund.

He was recently appointed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to the Cooperative Extension Service Committee on organization and policy, and is president-elect of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents.

Juchartz is past chairman of the Wayne County Planning Board and is a member of the Belleville Rotary Club, American Society for Horticultural Sciences, American Horticultural Society, Michigan Society of Planning Officials, Council of Regional Development of Southeastern Michigan and Council of Governments, Michigan Association of County Agricultural Agents.

He is also a member of Bedding Plants, Inc.

Juchartz was first appointed to the trust fund in 1977.

Athletic injuries are seminar theme

A new concept using trainers and coaches to assist the physician to conduct a comprehensive medical screening program for athletes will be advocated at a medical conference in Lansing April 13.

Suggestions for such an approach will be made by David Hough, MD, a member of the Department of Family Practice and Sports Medicine at Michigan State University's College of Human Medicine, at the 1978 Conference on the Medical Aspects of Organized Athletics at the Lansing Hilton Inn.

Sponsored by the Michigan State Medical Society, the event annually attracts more than 150 team physicians, coaches, trainers and athletes.

As increasing numbers of students engage in more and more athletic endeavors and physical fitness activities, physicians are faced with the growing spectre of sore muscles, sprains, broken bones and assorted injuries.

With an eye to minimizing and preventing injuries, the Conference is featuring sessions on "Strength Testing as Part of the Physical Screening Examination," "Injury Prevention in Athletics," and "Differences in Treatment Rules in High School and College."

From the standpoint of treating and managing injuries, the Conference will deal with "On the Field Evaluation of the Injured Athlete," as well as offering separate sessions on foot, ankle and knee injuries. Also scheduled are "Treatment and Diagnosis of Soft Tissue Injuries," and "Non-Orthopedic Problems in Sports Medicine."

One of the out-of-state guest clinicians, Donald L. Cooper, MD, Oklahoma State University team physician, will deal with a sensitive topic in discussing "Drugs, Society, and the Athlete."

Joe Kearney, PhD, MSU athletic director, will be the post-luncheon speaker on the topic, "Competitive Athletics: A Plus in Higher Education."

Allen Bush, retiring executive director of the Michigan High School Athletic Association, is among the speakers for the day.

Additional out-of-state speakers will include: David Bachman, MD, director, Northwestern University Medical School Center for Sports Medicine and Richard Hoover, head, Education Department, Northwestern University Medical School Center for Sports Medicine.

Other Michigan speakers include: Clint Thompson, head trainer, MSU; Douglas McKeag, MD, Department of Family Practice and Sports Medicine, MSU; Gerald O'Connor, MD, head of the Department of Sports Medicine, University of Michigan and the U-M team physician; and Ken Kopke, coordinator of the Sports Medicine Service at Central Michigan University.

This year's program chairman is Edward Fugate, MD, Muskegon.

Van Buren sets tryouts

The Belleville Van Buren Little League will hold baseball tryouts on Wednesday, April 5 at 5:30 p.m., and Saturday between 10 a.m. and noon on the diamond behind Belleville High School.

The league is also looking for managers and assistant managers for the T-Ball League and farm system. Further information may be obtained by telephoning George Roberts at 697-1641.

DRC to host dog show

More than 2,000 dogs of different breeds have been entered in Sunday's show sponsored by the Livonia Dog Club.

The show will be held Sunday at 8 p.m. on the grounds of the Detroit Race Course, Schoolcraft and Middlebelt.

"This is the first year that we have over 2,000 entries," commented Patricia Alteri, publicity chairman. "It should prove very interesting."

Admission to the show is $2 for adults and $1 for senior citizens and children.

Further information may be obtained by telephoning Delphie Schultz at 464-1348.

Romulus holds 'mock' gymnastics tournament

Youngsters who take part in the Romulus sponsored gymnastics classes got a taste what it's really like to compete in tournament-style competition last week.

Romulus' Recreation Department held what it labeled a "mock meet" in the gym at Harrison Community Center and the participating gymnasts were children who are enrolled in the winter gymnastics program.

The young gymnasts earned points by competing in vaulting, the balance beam and in tumbling. The audience also took part as they were encouraged to judge the gymnasts and compare their scores with the judges. (A perfect score in gymnastics is a 10.0).

Prizes, courtesy of Burger King of Southland were awarded to each gymnast who participated in the meet. The top three finishers in each event were also awarded ribbons and posters.

The three winners were Natalie Zabib who amassed 32 points for first place; Kim Doss, who collected 25 points and Lisa McHenry, who finished with 24.35 points.

The official judges and instructors for the winter program were Sharon Eskin and Bob Marijanovich.

AUTO FACTS

by Chet Kosin

Americans of all ages have been carrying on a love affair with mobility. And our love affair goes way beyond the automobile. It also embraces airplanes, buses, boats, trains, motorcycles, campers, snowmobiles, bikes, and even horses. In the mid-1970's, we owned at least 112 million cars, trucks, and other vehicles, more than one vehicle for every other man, woman, and child in the U.S. More than two out of every five families owned two or more cars. Fewer than one in five American families today are without one. Every year, Americans drive more than 1 TRILLION miles, the equivalent of more than 5,000 round trips between the earth and sun.

Save on auto repair bills by taking advantage of the service offered at KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan, Inkster! In addition to a huge inventory of parts, accessories and tools for both foreign and domestic cars, KOSIN'S offers complete machine shop repair service. Our mechanics are fully qualified in all phases of machine work and we tackle the most challenging engine repair problems. We work on any size and type of engine including motorcycles, automotive, industrial, marine and agricultural. Call KOSIN'S at 563-3894. We are open daily until 8 P.M., and on Saturdays until 5 P.M.

Extra Point loses in bid for double crown

Upset was the name of the game as the Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey League began its search for a playoff champ.

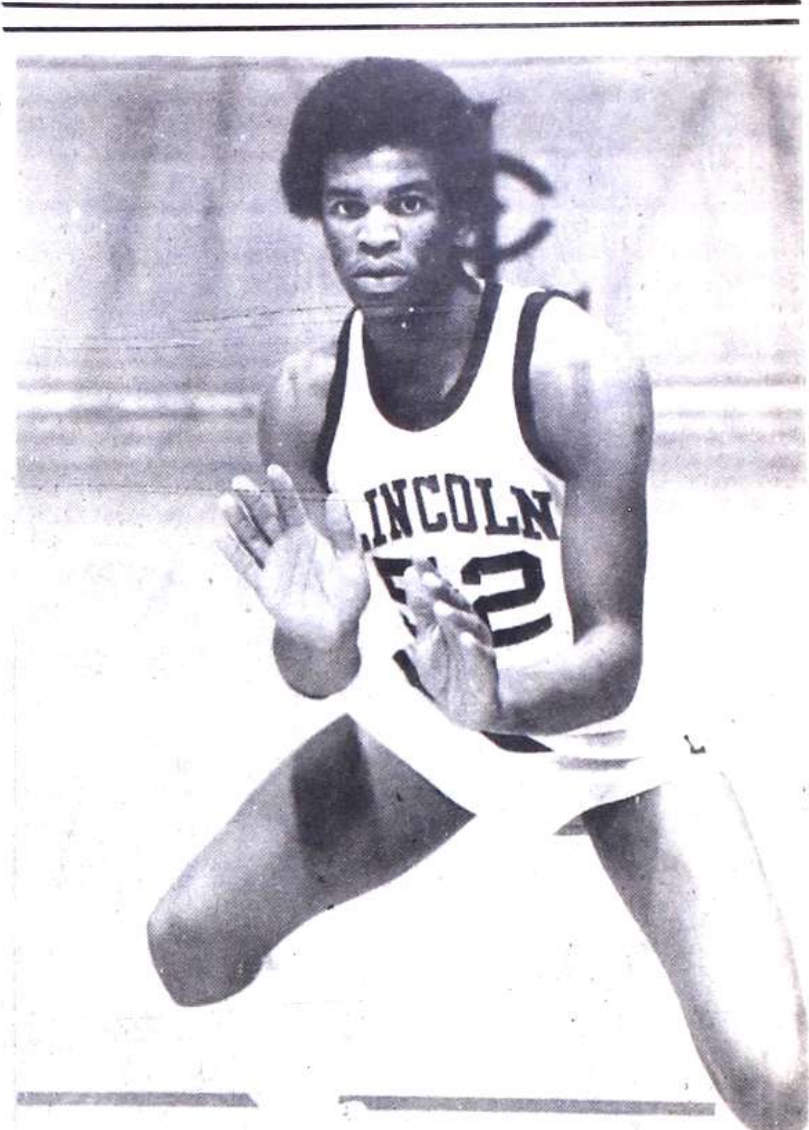

Right off with the opening game, newly-crowned league champ Extra Point Bar was stunned by Jack's Sports Center, 5-2.

The champs lost their winning touch despite grabbing an early 2-0 lead on a pair of goals by Dave Zajac, however, midway through the second period Jack's was slapped with a two-minute penalty.

The league champs continued to press Jack's goalie John Ruggerio but couldn't get the puck behind him. This was the second time in less than a month that Jack's has managed to upset the previously invincible Extra Point Bar.

After the thriller, second place couple of more goals in a span of 10 minutes to provide the coup-de grace.

With Four Seasons leading 3-2 with three minutes left in the game, Brock's Ed Ross scored the equalizer to make it 3-all, then, with Brock's having a power play going for it late in the game, Ross notched his second goal with a mere 14 seconds remaining in the game to give Brock's the decisive victory.

From Romulus to Lincoln

Romulus' John Golden was the fourth leading scorer for Lincoln College during his basketball career at the private, two-year institute located 30 miles north of Springfield. The son of Mrs. Virginia Golden, 33984 Ecorse Rd., John totaled 198 points for a 4.1 points per game average in helping the Lynx to a combined 43-24 record for the 1976-77 and 1977-78 campaigns. He averaged 47 percent from the field and 50 percent from the foul line and also nailed down 158 rebounds. A 1976 graduate of Romulus, Golden also had five assists and stole the ball four times. Lincoln College is the only school still in existence named for Abraham Lincoln during his lifetime.

Grissom's world

Building memories

By SAM GRISSOM
Outdoor Writer

You watch as he casts with grim faced determination toward a small cluster of lily pads near the edge of the shoreline.

The lobbing cast lands with remarkable accuracy, and the pencil bobber barely has time to right itself when it suddenly dives beneath the water's surface.

Belatedly he sets the hook only to find that the fish has hooked itself:

"Look, dad, I've got one!"

The bluegill makes several short powerful runs and is flopping on the shore. He's a fair size fish, but the 'gill is greatly diminished by the size of the boy's grin.

I know of nothing that is quite as exciting or rewarding as watching a boy catch his first fish. Bluegills are probably responsible for starting more persons on a life long hobby than any other species of fish.

Both you and your kids are probably long overdue for an outing and taking them fishing is the world's best cure for end of the winter induced "cabin fever."

Almost any lake you'd care to go to hosts a decent population of bluegills, and spring brings them into the shallow water where they're fishable from the shore.

Shallow water attracts the bluegills in droves because it is the first water to reach their preferred temperature range. Shortly after moving on they start building their reds (nests) in water that is usually less than three-feet deep. At no other time of the year are they easier to catch.

Bluegills aren't noted for their size; but they are highly-rated for their fighting ability. If they grew to the size of a salmon you would rarely bring one to the net. One additional bonus is that they are the finest eating fish we have in Michigan.

Outfitting a small boy is relatively inexpensive and for less than a five dollar bill you can buy a rod and reel combination that will meet the task beautifully. Even if the cost were tenfold, the happiness and memories that it buys would be well worth the expenditure.

In spite of how much fun it is for a kid, the best part about taking a child fishing is that you are building yourself a beautiful set of memories and making yourself a friend in the process.

Wayne's Rick Brewis earns UM-D title of scholar-athlete

Wayne's Richard Brewis was named as the co-recipient of the inaugural Scholar-Athlete award presented by the University of Michigan-Dearborn Alumni Society who honored two of the university's basketball players.

The second recipient is Amy Gierak of Redford Township.

Although the smallest player on the U of M-D men's basketball team, Brewis has been the mainstay of the Wolves squad for the past three years. A junior majoring in sociology with a 3.4 grade-point average, he has twice been co-captain and voted Most Valuable Player of the team.

Brewis holds the U of M-D men's record for most points in a single game, hitting for 30 against Detroit Tech in the 1975-76 season, and has scored 619 points in 51 games during his three-year career for a 12.1 average.

Rick, according to Coach Tip Smathers, is the man who U of M-D looks to for floor leadership.

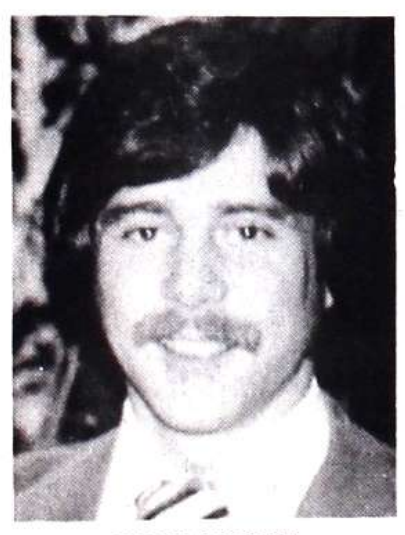

Besides classes and basketball, Brewis works part-time as a recreation leader at the Wayne Community Center and is a registered high school basketball and football official.

"Officials and followers of opposition schools often comment on Rick's on-the-court behaviour," Smathers pointed out. "He is a true scholar-athlete and a nice guy, too."

Lemontree appoints Boehms as manager

Jerry Boehms has been named manager of Sports Illustrated Court Club-Lemontree.

The luxurious 12-court facility,

showpiece of the SICC chain and site of the national racquetball championships later this year, is scheduled to open in early May.

Boehms, a long-time resident of Lemontree Apartments, has been named pool supervisor at Lemontree and a teaching pro at the Sports Illustrated Court Club in Ypsilanti.

He is a graduate of Central Michigan University where he was a racquetball champion.

Boehms also is a recent graduate of SICC's unique Off-the-Wall U., which provides professional training in racquetball management.

With the opening of five new clubs in April and May, Sports Illustrated Court Clubs, which is headquartered in Southfield, becomes the nation's largest racquetball organization, operating a total of 122 courts.

Work is now underway on seven additional clubs, which will be completed this year, and a total of 125 SICC clubs is projected by 1981. Publishing giant Time, Inc. is part-owner.

Romulus sets dates for cage clinic

Romulus head Coach Rod Hanna will conduct a basketball clinic for boys and girls for six consecutive Saturdays, beginning Saturday, April 8.

The clinic will be held at North Junior High and is open to boys and girls, ages nine to 17. The group will be divided into three divisions with the 9 to 11 year olds meeting from 9 to 11 a.m., the junior high and high school girls from 11 to 1 p.m., while the boys in those grades gathering from 1 to 3 p.m.

Hanna will be assisted by coach Chuck Shamey and varsity captains John Kersey and Herb Buckley.

"Each of my varsity players will be responsible for a group," pointed out Hanna. "The purpose behind this clinic is to give these boys and girls exposure to basketball, drilling them with the basic fundamentals of the game."

Nobody has lower new car Auto Loan Rates!

(SAVE UP TO $300)

That's right. According to a recent survey, nobody has lower new car auto loan rates than Wyandotte Savings Bank. And that means you can save up to $300 by financing your new car at WSB. Just look at the chart:

	Wyandotte Savings Bank	Bank A	Bank B	Bank C
